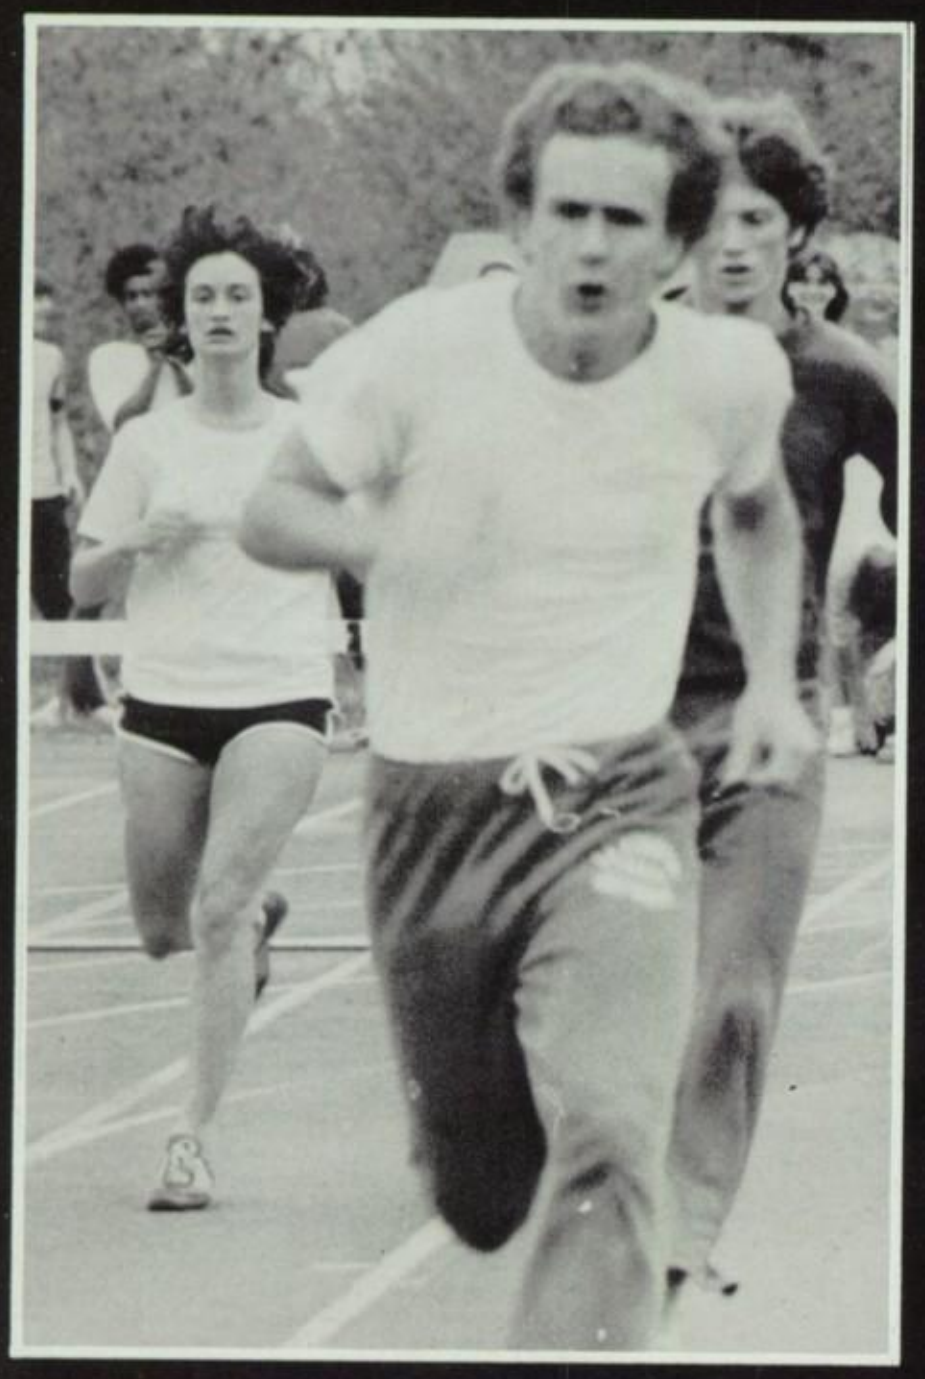
Knights of Tomorrow

I knew you when you were beginning,
And attempting to face the challenge
That a demanding world had set before you.
I remember when they called you
To become a builder of the future,
And a Knight of Tomorrow . . .

I was with you as you were learning,
Constantly probing for the answers
In a quest for the truth found in knowledge,
And the perfection in understanding.
You were asking in order to answer a challenge,
And I was with you,
Because I also had been called . . .



I was next to you as you were searching
For some clue to your destination,
In a world that asked more than you were ready to give.
Looking for a separate identity
And recognition within a crowd,
We fought, we dreamed, we sang, we laughed,
We cried . . .

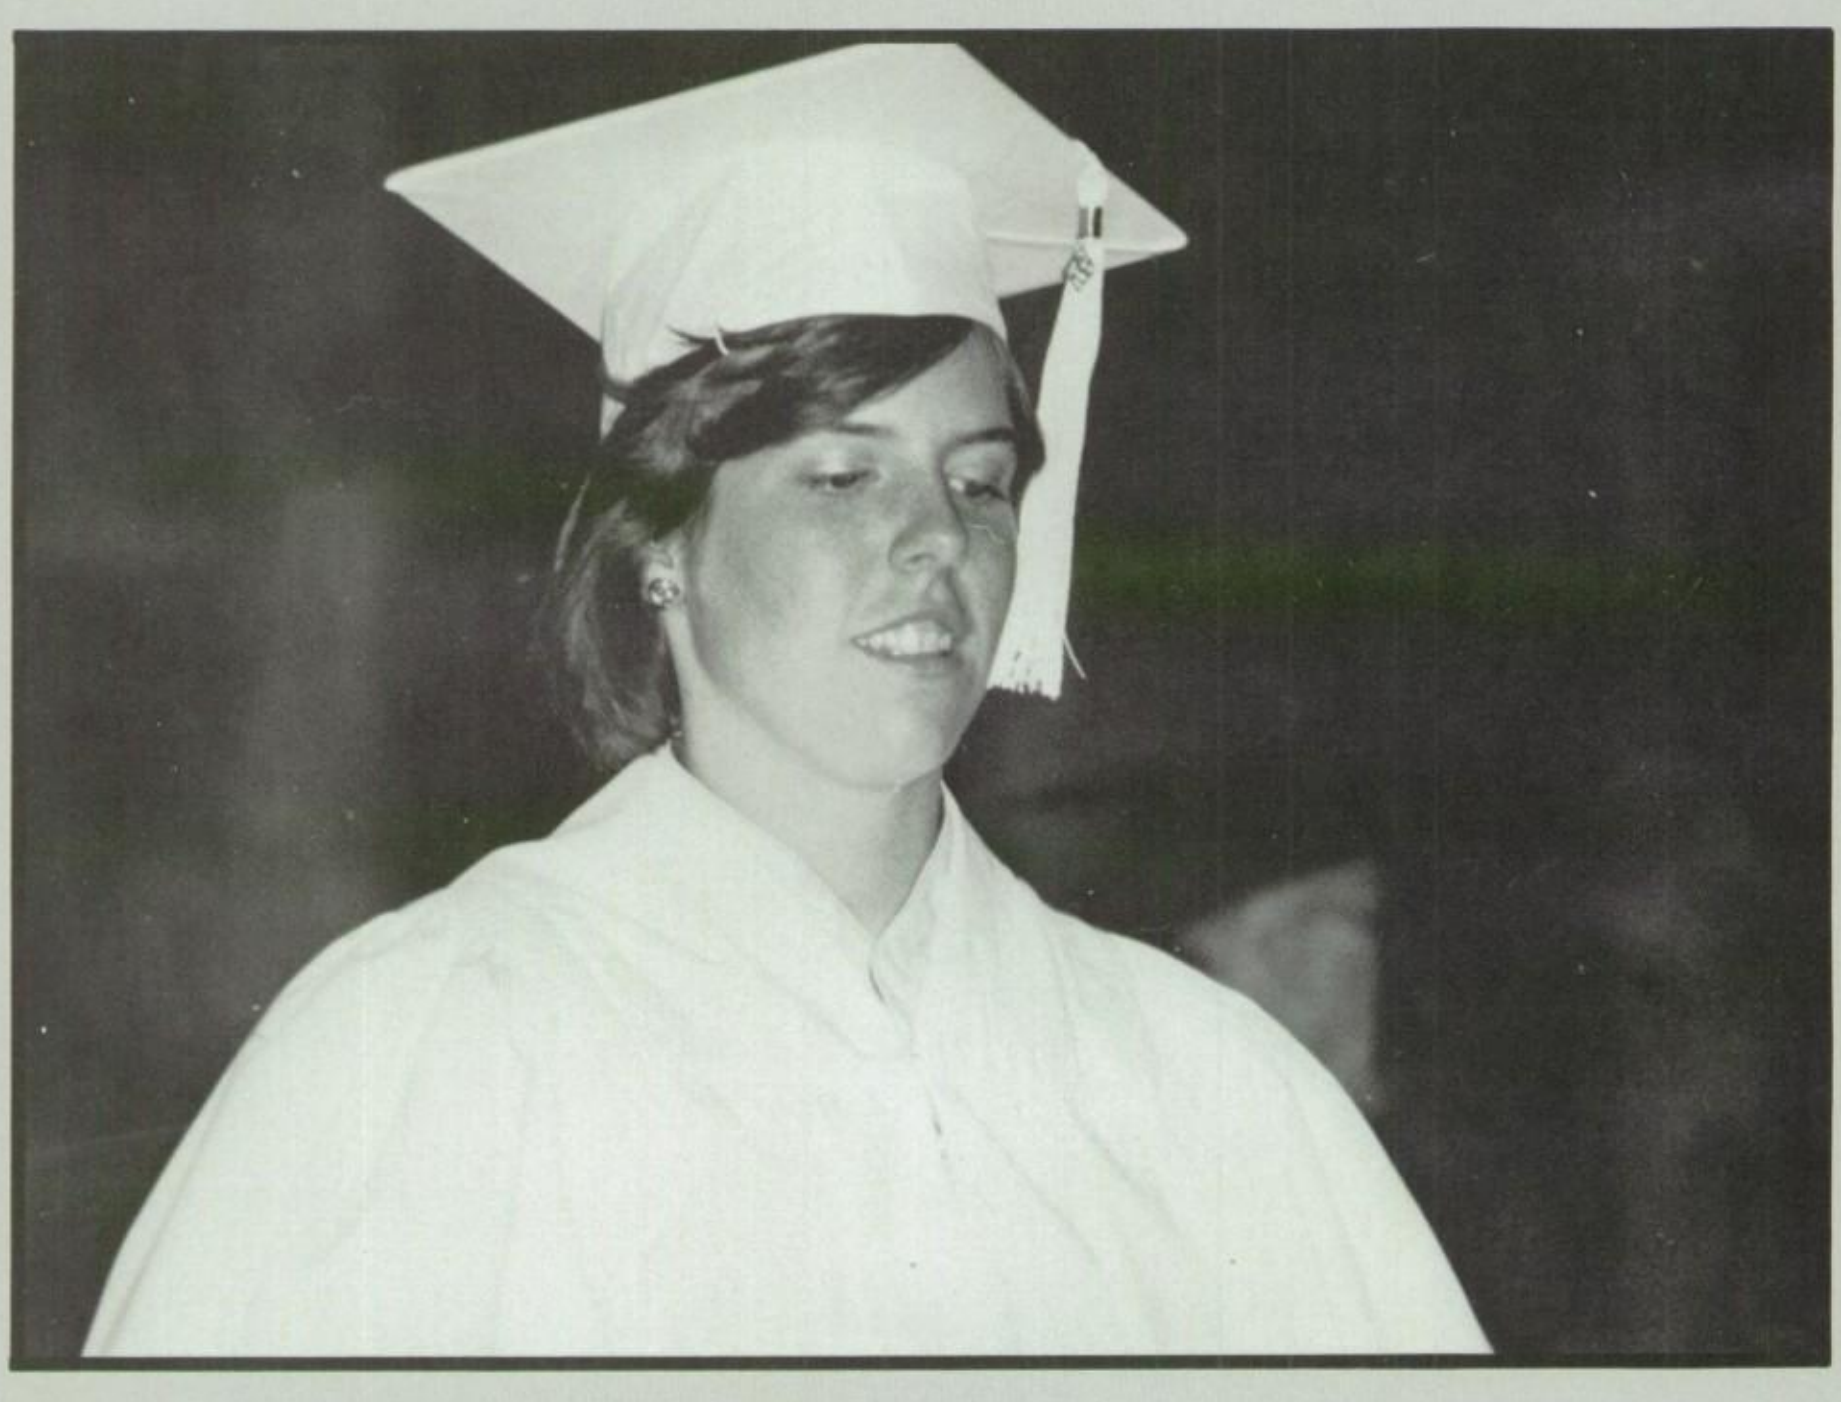
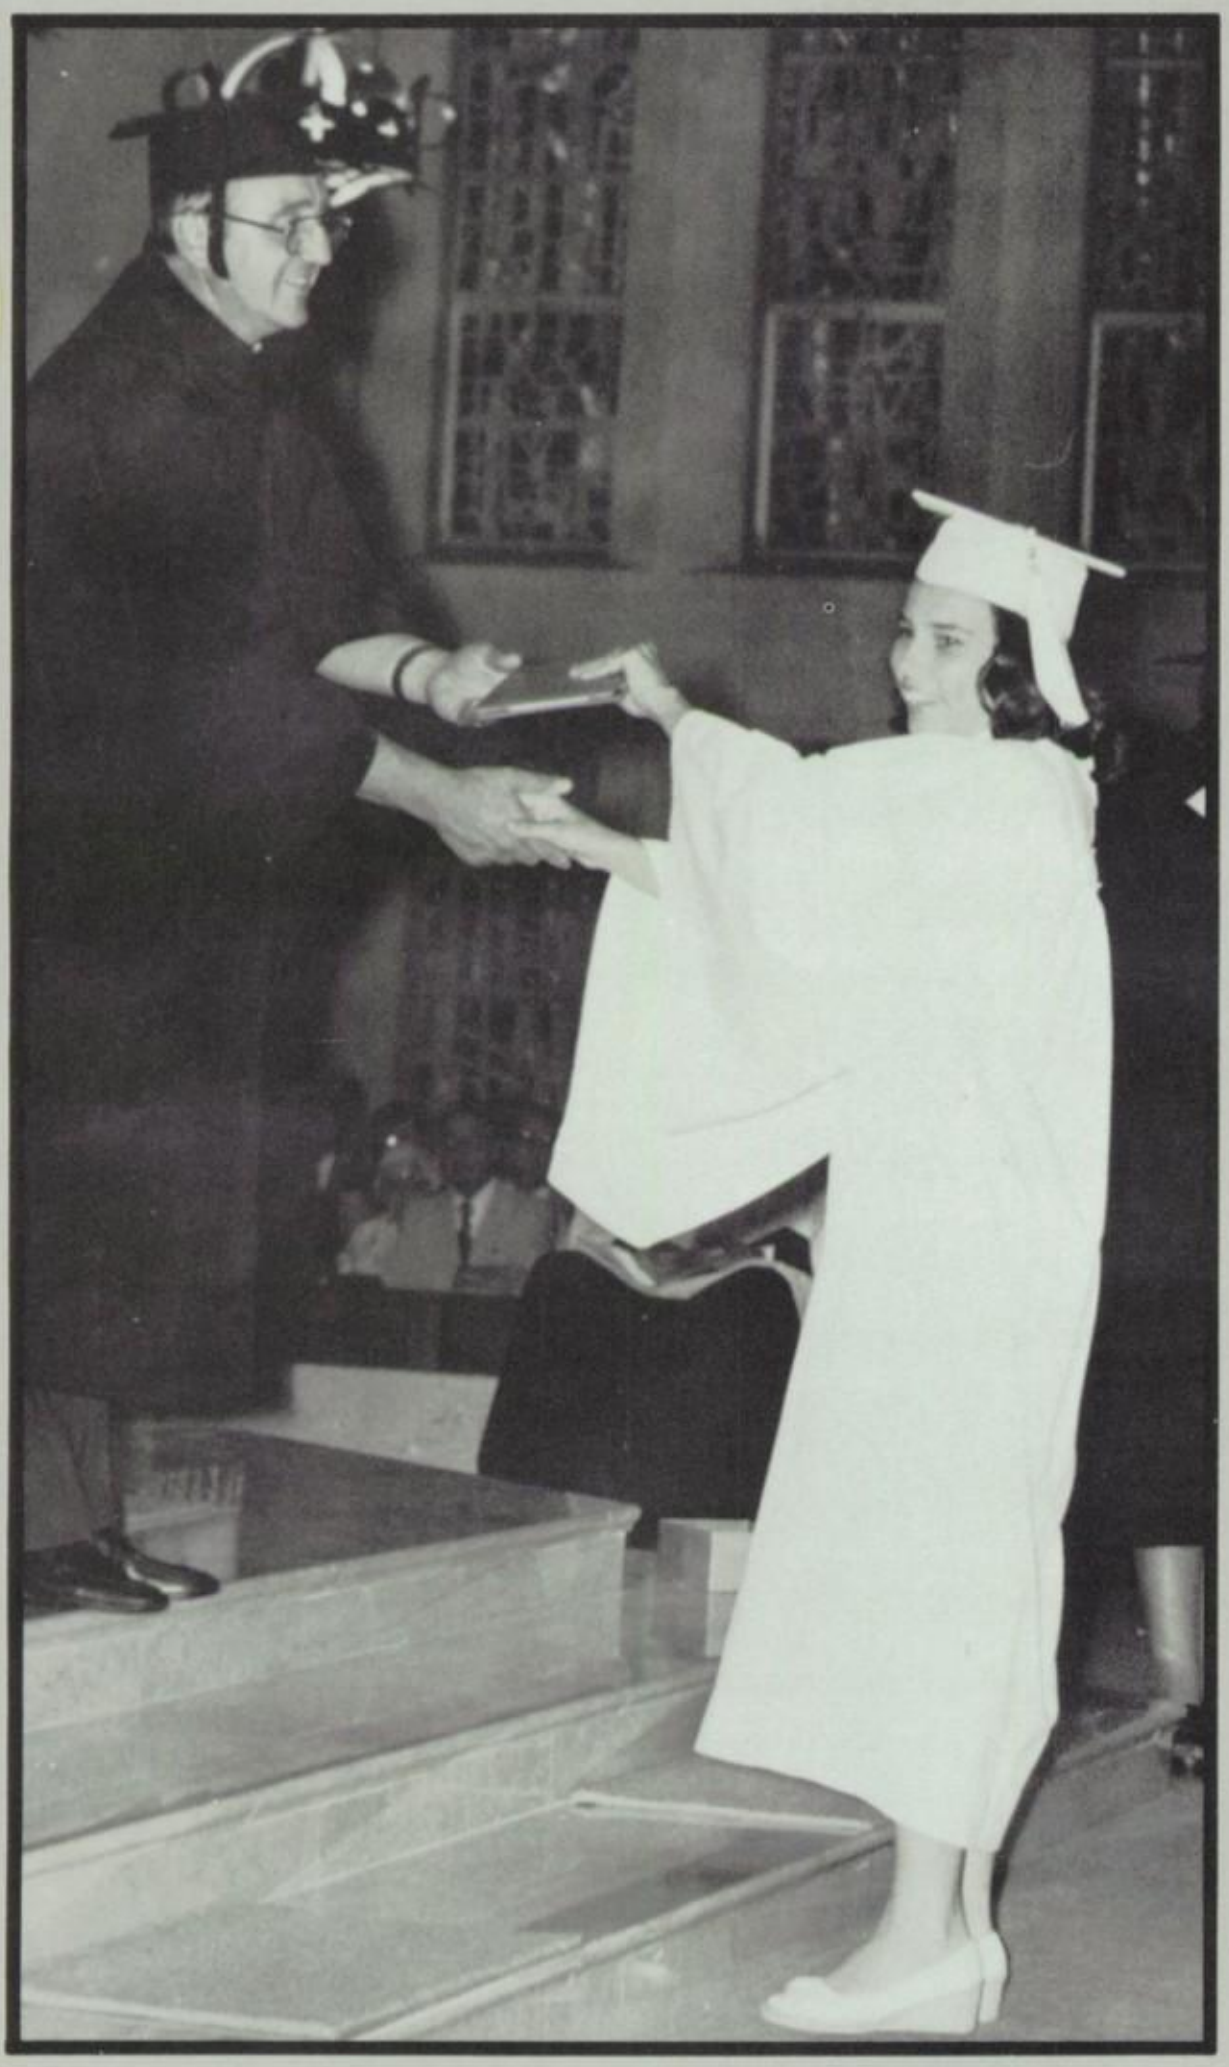
GRADUATION



Anne Eberhardt smiles as she receives her diploma and rose.

Boy, I'm glad they didn't find out what I got away with!

The seriousness of graduation causes Chuck, Mark, and Vic to reflect upon the past year.



The final graduation ceremony was also held at Christ the King church. Our principal, Father Nieberding, gave the traditional speech about the graduates having reached the top of the ladder. Patti Bush gave an address entitled "Reflections"; Jean Marie McGinnis delivered the Valedictorian speech. Then Father proceeded to hand out 100 diplomas to an equal number of smiling students.

The second day of June was a busy day for friends, relatives, and the graduates themselves. A gold, Kentucky sun accented the day's schedule, and caused many graduates to blink and squint as they made their way to their cars at 7:30 A.M. From their cars they made an early appearance at Christ the King church.

The mass was a very solemn, sentimental ceremony. After the mass, the graduates and their circles of friends proceeded to Lexington Catholic's gymnasium for a well-deserved breakfast prepared by Mrs. Lockard.

The rest of the day was left for the graduates to spend at their leisure. But 7:00 P.M. rolled around in a flash, and the graduates once again donned their gowns for their long-awaited, final graduation ceremony.

VALEDICTORY ADDRESS

June 2, 1978

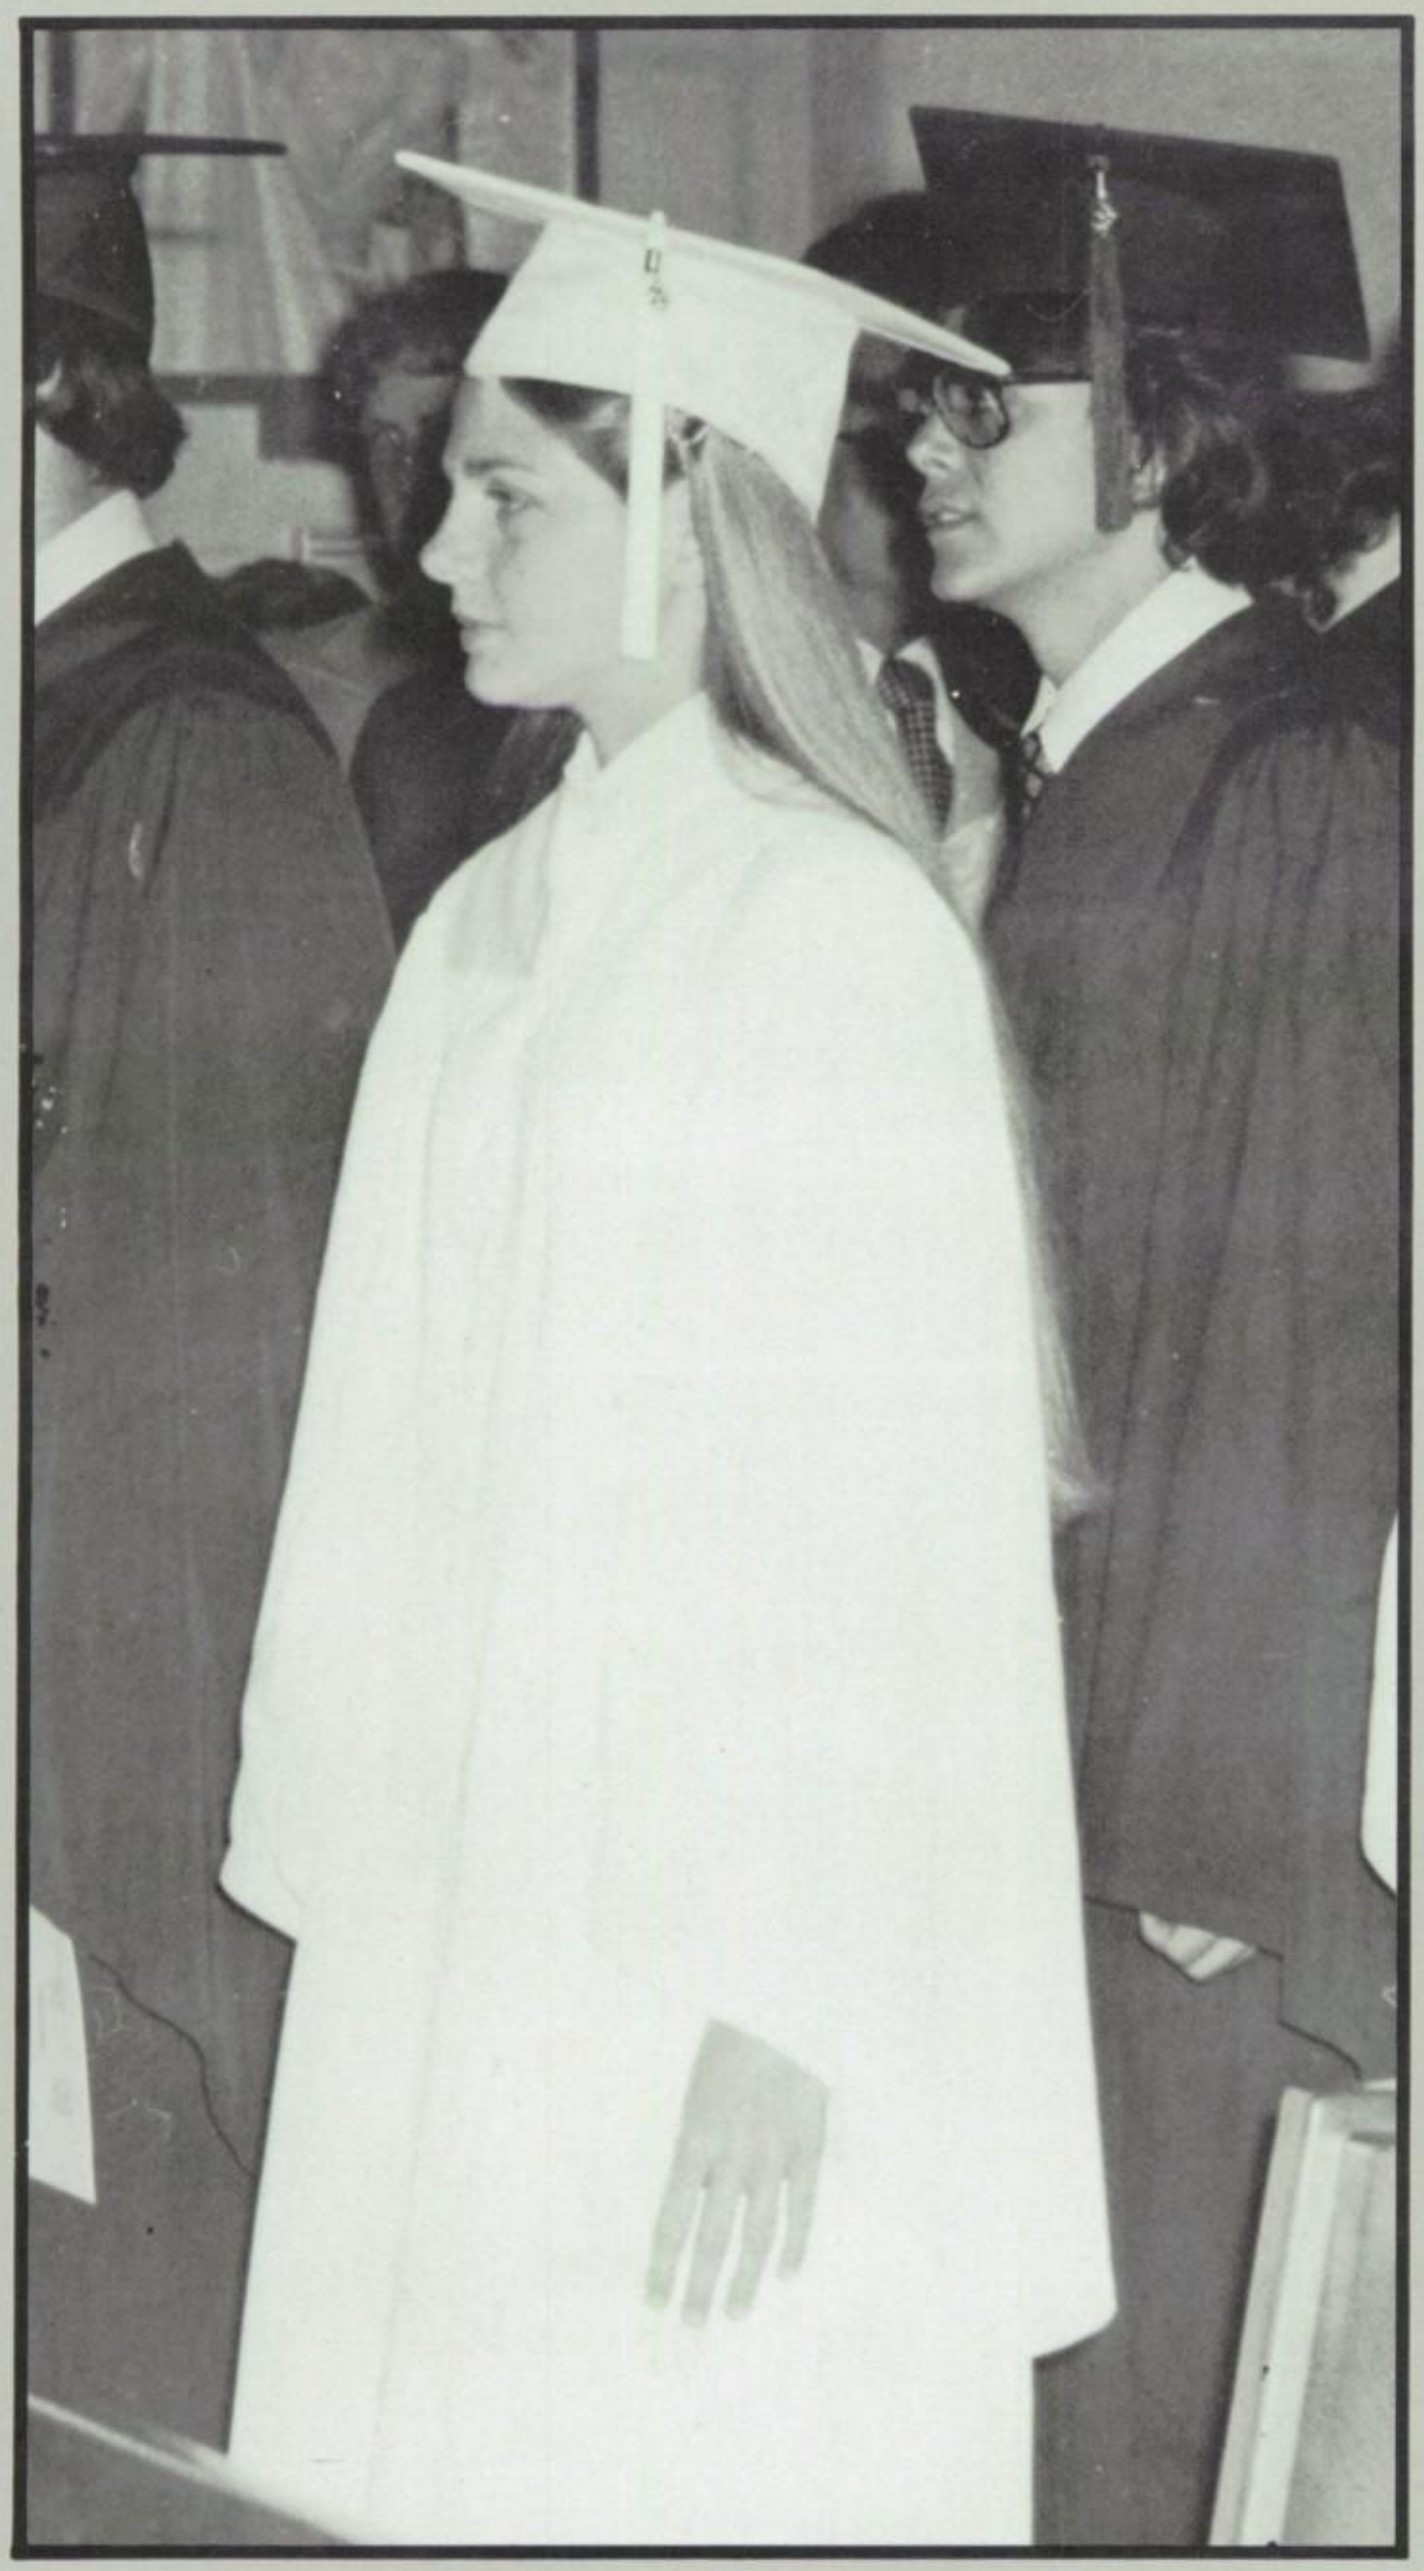
Jean Marie McGinnis

Today, June 2nd, 1978, is Lexington Catholic High School's 26th annual commencement exercises. Every year, throughout the nation, thousands of high school seniors graduate. Some of us may not seriously contemplate the true meaning of graduation. What, then, is the real significance of this memorable occasion? The dictionary defines it as the reception of an academic degree or diploma — successfully fulfilling the requirements of the school we have attended for the past four years. The thought of graduation also brings to mind ceremonies and diplomas, class rings and final goodbyes, signifying the end of our high school career, and the beginning of a new life of independence in society.

However, graduation also means much more than the conferring of a diploma and the various activities often associated with this ceremony. On a higher level, it is an outward symbol of our continuing process of growth and maturation. Throughout our years at Lexington Catholic, we were faced with many mental, social and spiritual challenges. At times, these challenges seemed insurmountable, but through our hard work and persistence, we surmounted these challenges and successfully completed our high school education.

In the future, as we enter into a new world, we will again be faced with many similar challenges. To fulfill these challenges, as we fulfilled those of the past four years, we must apply ourselves towards attaining these goals. Real satisfaction in life can only be accomplished through fulfilling such challenges. Solving our problems in life successfully is a kind of graduation, for we have achieved one goal, and reach for even higher goals.

We should not limit ourselves to only formal graduations from high school, and for many of us, from college. We should continue, in a sense, to graduate, by achieving our goals through maturing and developing as responsible Christians in society. We should always keep growing as individuals. As people, we have a personal obligation to maintain our perseverance for the best, whether it be in the mental, social or spiritual aspects of life. We should continue to graduate — to reach for goals and successfully achieve them. Let this not be our final graduation, but our first.



GRUB DAY

Won't it start Bum?

The routine of school year was broken as the seniors had their annual grub day. Blue-jeaned clad seniors cleaned around and in the school and were rewarded with lunch ala McDonald's.

Working hard guys?

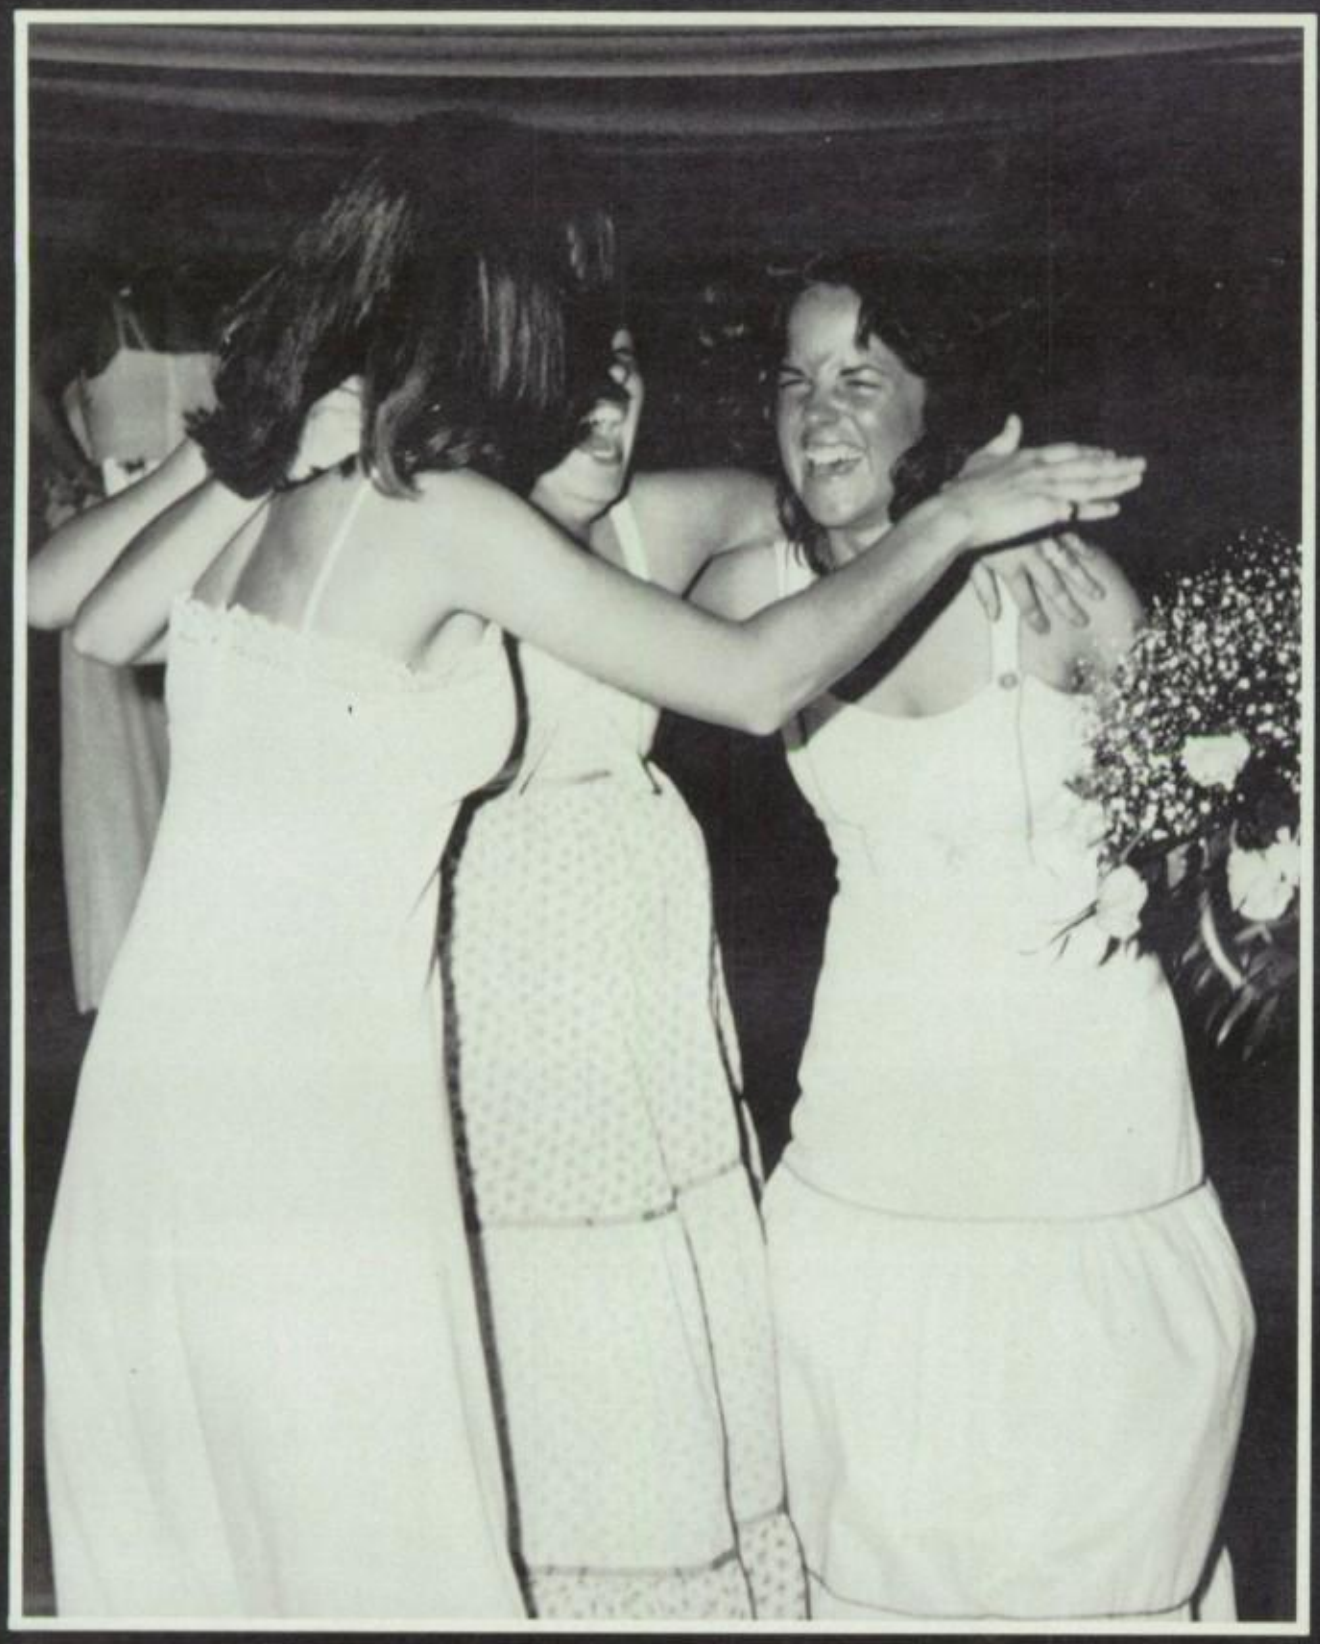
Pretending to work Jenny?

Are they even?

Prom 1978

It's a beautiful moment... When all your dreams come true.

Queen, Anne Riddell, and King, Mike Reynolds.



Close friends are busy giving congratulations!!

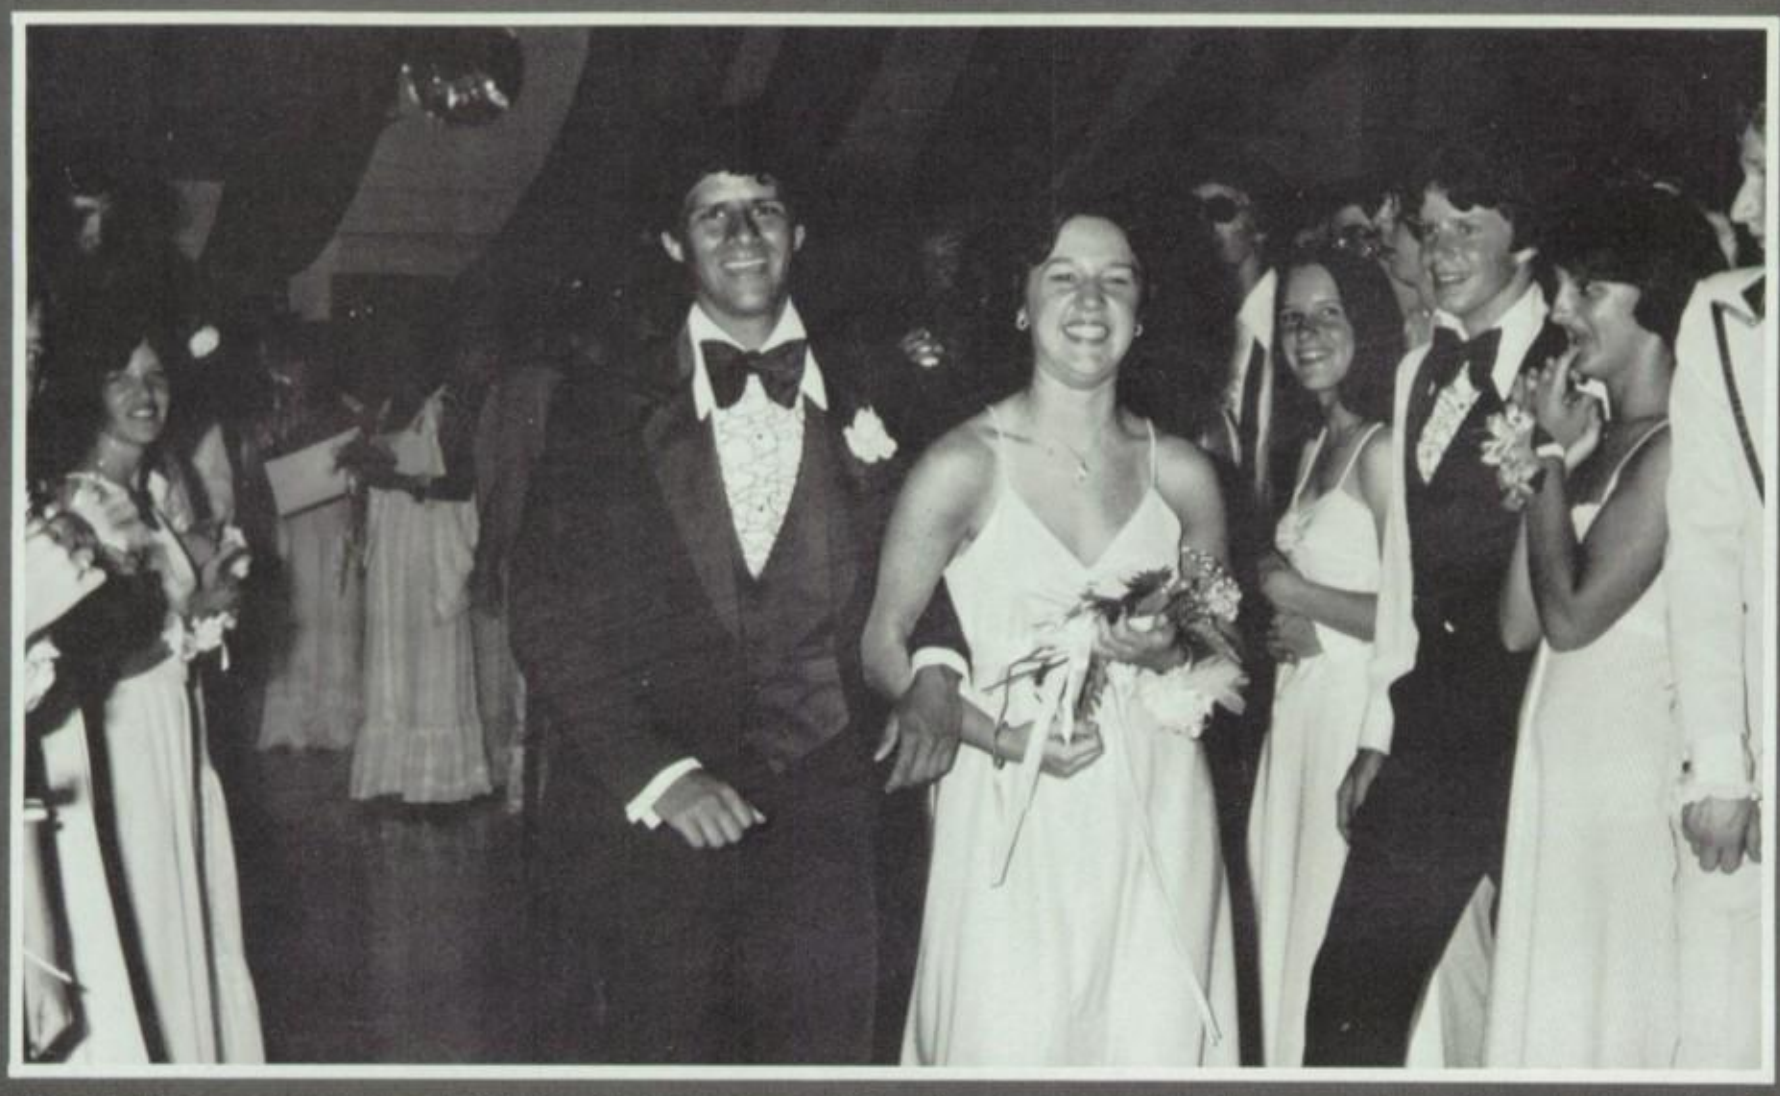
The Court

As the 1978 Prom, "The Point of No Return," progressed, the countdown for King and Queen began. Leslie Omohundro and Chuck Curd were the first runners-up.

Patricia Martin and Patrick DeLuca, the infamous "Pat-n-Pat," were next in line as second runners-up. Such a happy couple!!!

"The Point of No Return."

The Court



Pam Johns, escorted by Jeff Hinkel, wears a pretty smile as she makes her way down the aisle to join the others for the crowning ceremony.

An effervescent Alicia Bryant, along with the dandied-up "Championship" Cunningham, proceed down the aisle to await the rest of their friends.

This year's crowning ceremony was the best of all Lexington Catholic's proms. Each of the Queen's contenders were presented with a beautiful remembrance of their unique experience — a single pink rose, surrounded with baby's breath and silk ribbon.

THE CROWNING . . .

Last year's Queen, Julie Elkin, reappeared on the set to present Anne with her crowning glory. Anne's smile couldn't have been brighter!!! After a few more memorable moments with the King, Mike Reynolds, Anne descended the throne to dance a few more dances with her date, Mark Hagman.

The King of "The Point of No Return," Mike Reynolds, accepts his gift with his usual grace. After he opened his present, a pewter mug, he set more than a few to laughing with his blatant one-liner, "Gee, Thanks!!!"

The Royal Twosome: His and Her Majesty, Mike and Anne.

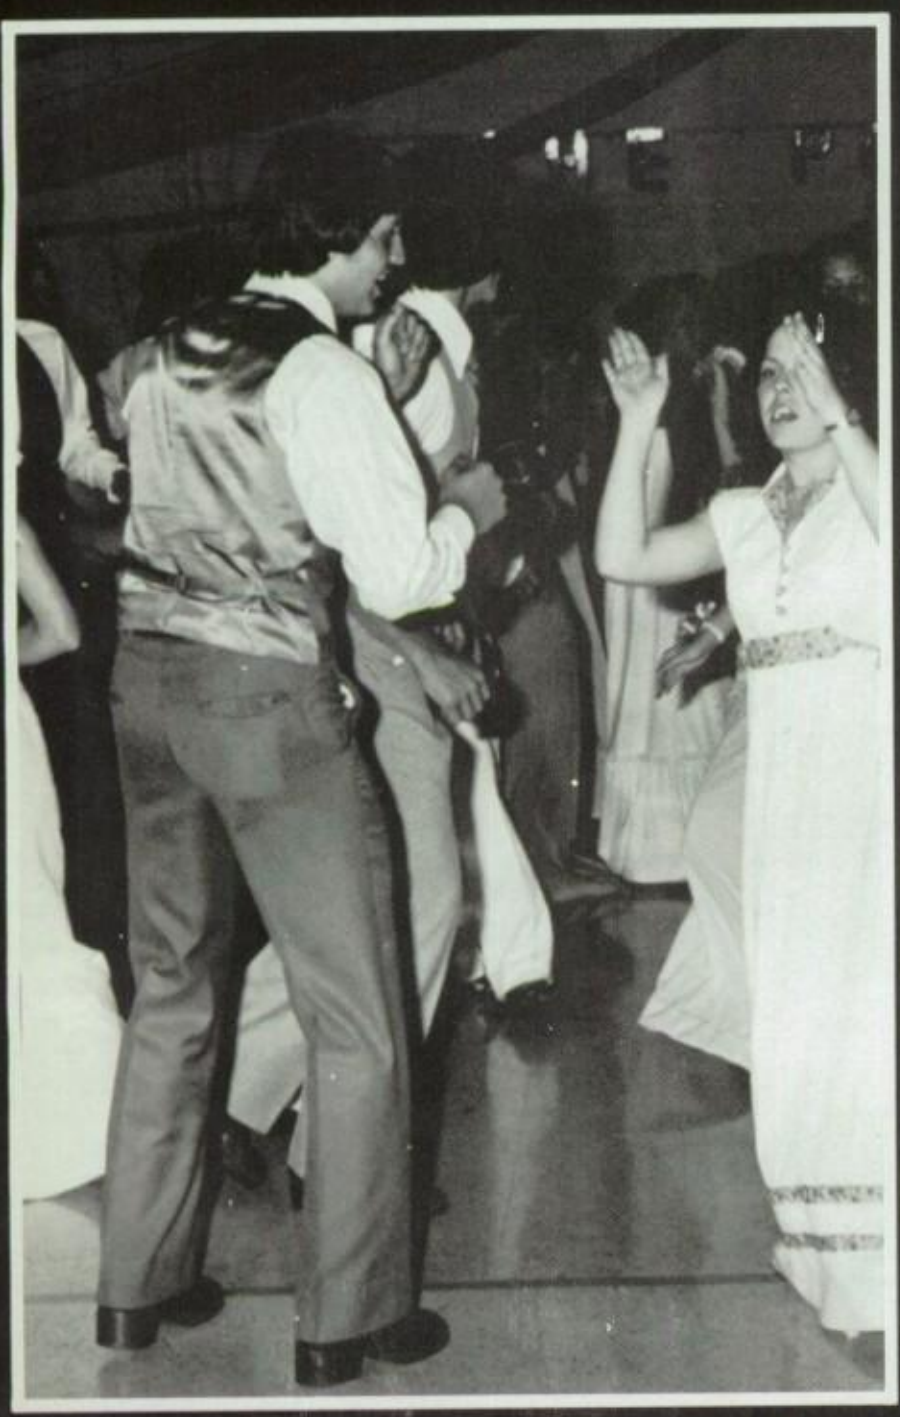
Fr. Ehrenfels doing the Bump, (or is that the Bunny Hop?).

Mike Miley and David Kain are busy cuddling with their cuties!! They'll just have to miss this dance!

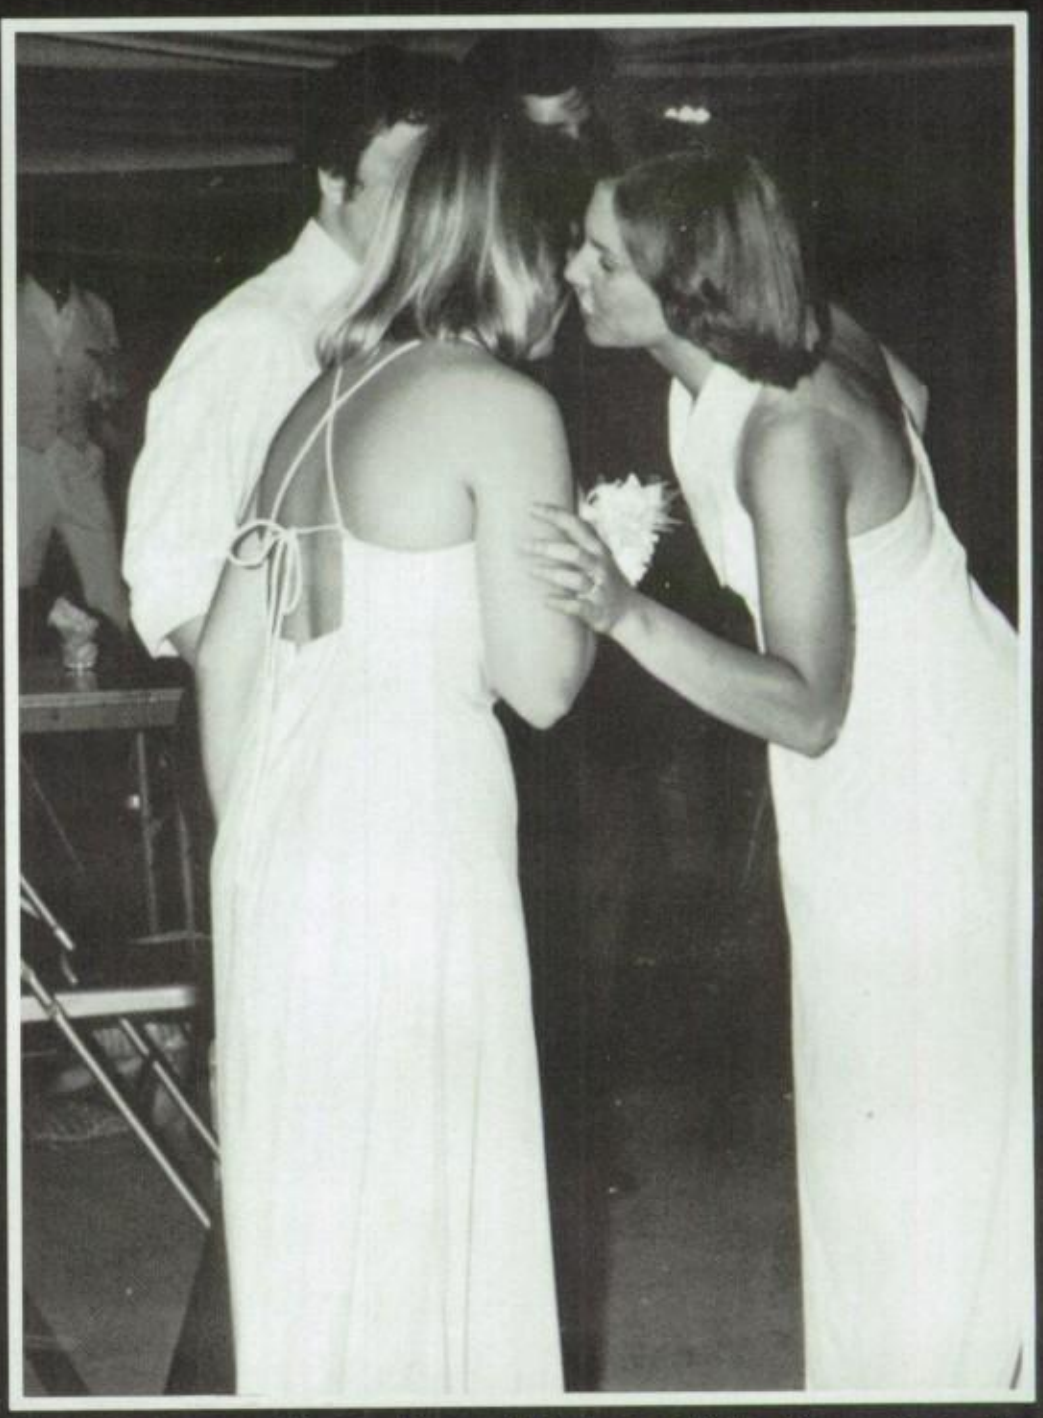
MEMORIES

THE POINT OF

These are the ladies we owe it all to: Sandy Alexander and Mary Beth Bruno. Why?? Because they made the prom simply bee-yoo-ti-full!!!

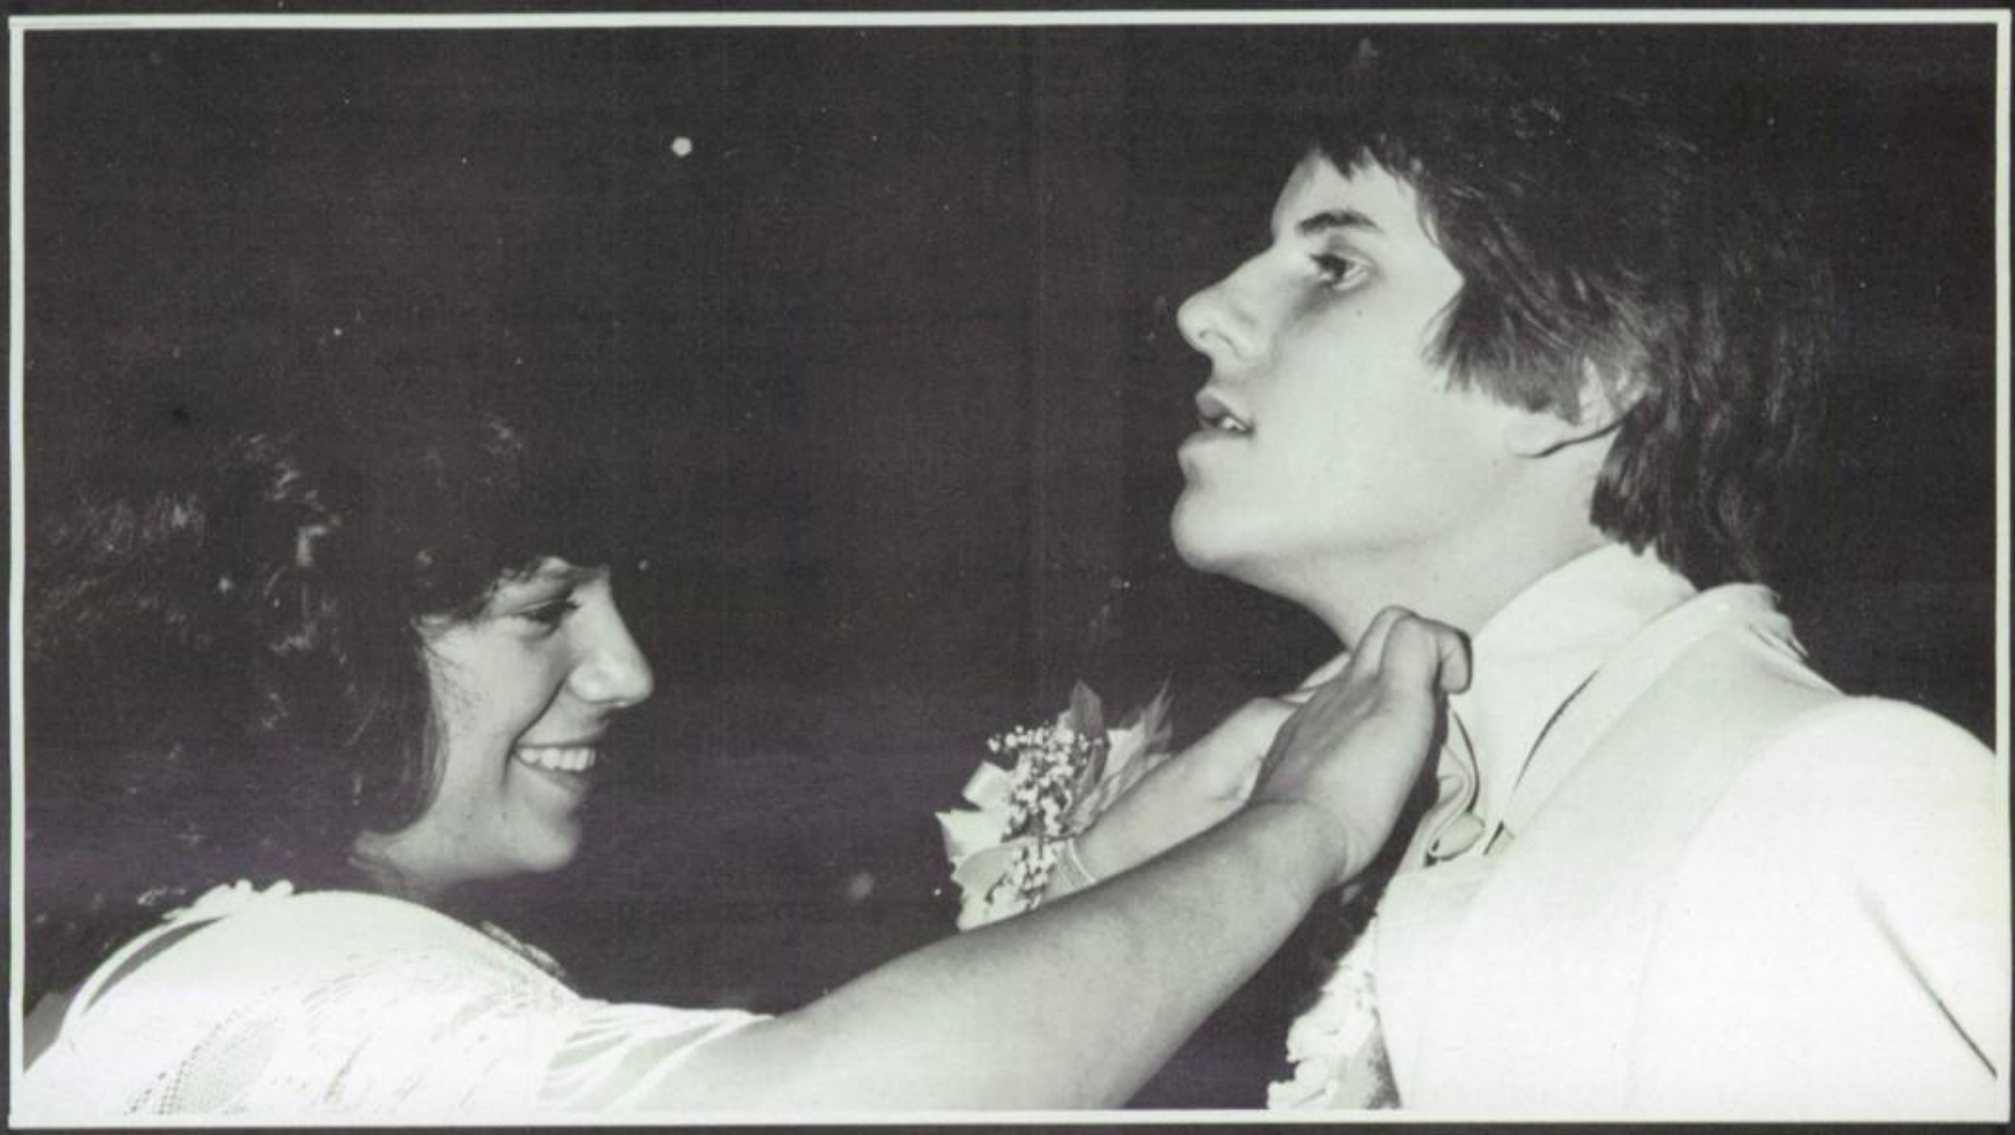


You had to shout to hear above the band's Rock-n-Roll.



Alumni, George Wysocki, and Michelle Mitchell boogie to the music.

NO RETURN



Maria Galvan makes the final adjustment so their pictures will be just purr-fect!

A final tribute to the band: Alfalfa; the music was great, LOUD, but great!!!

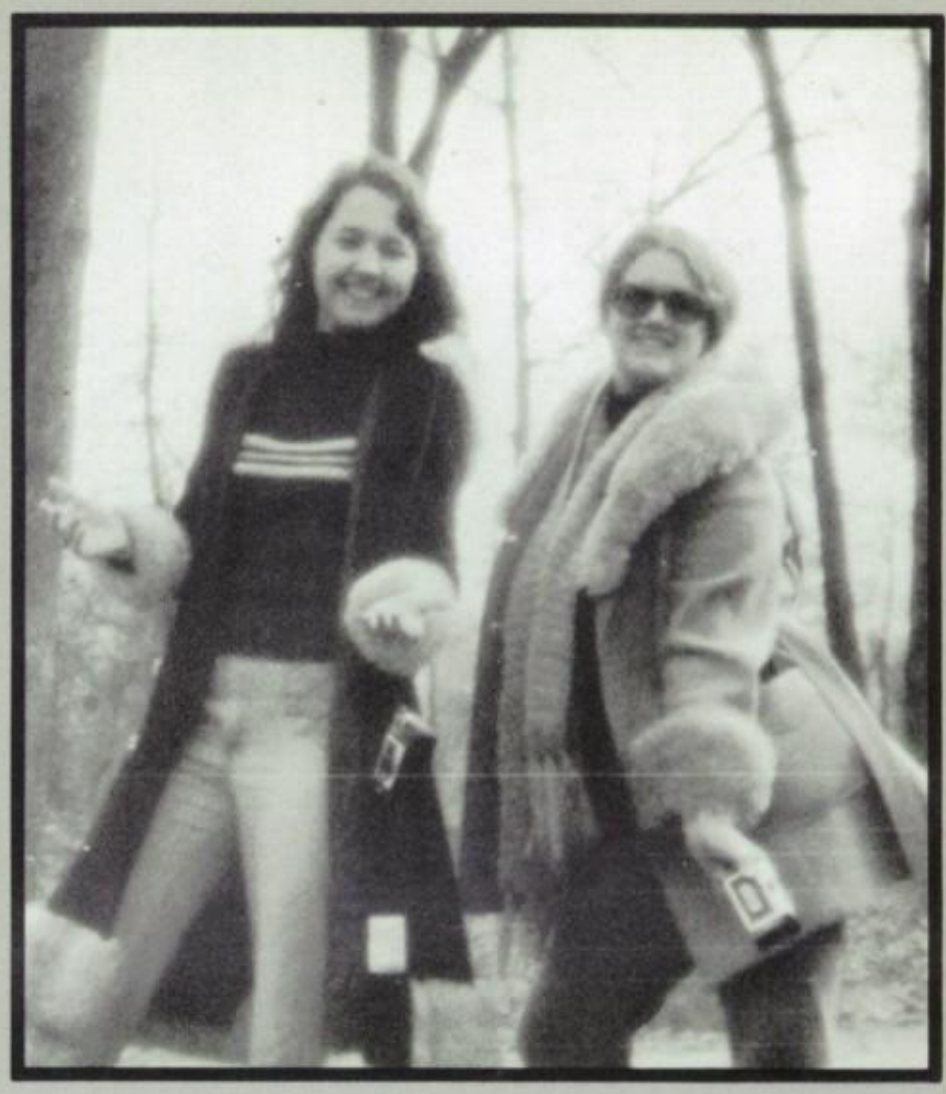
SENIOR RETREAT

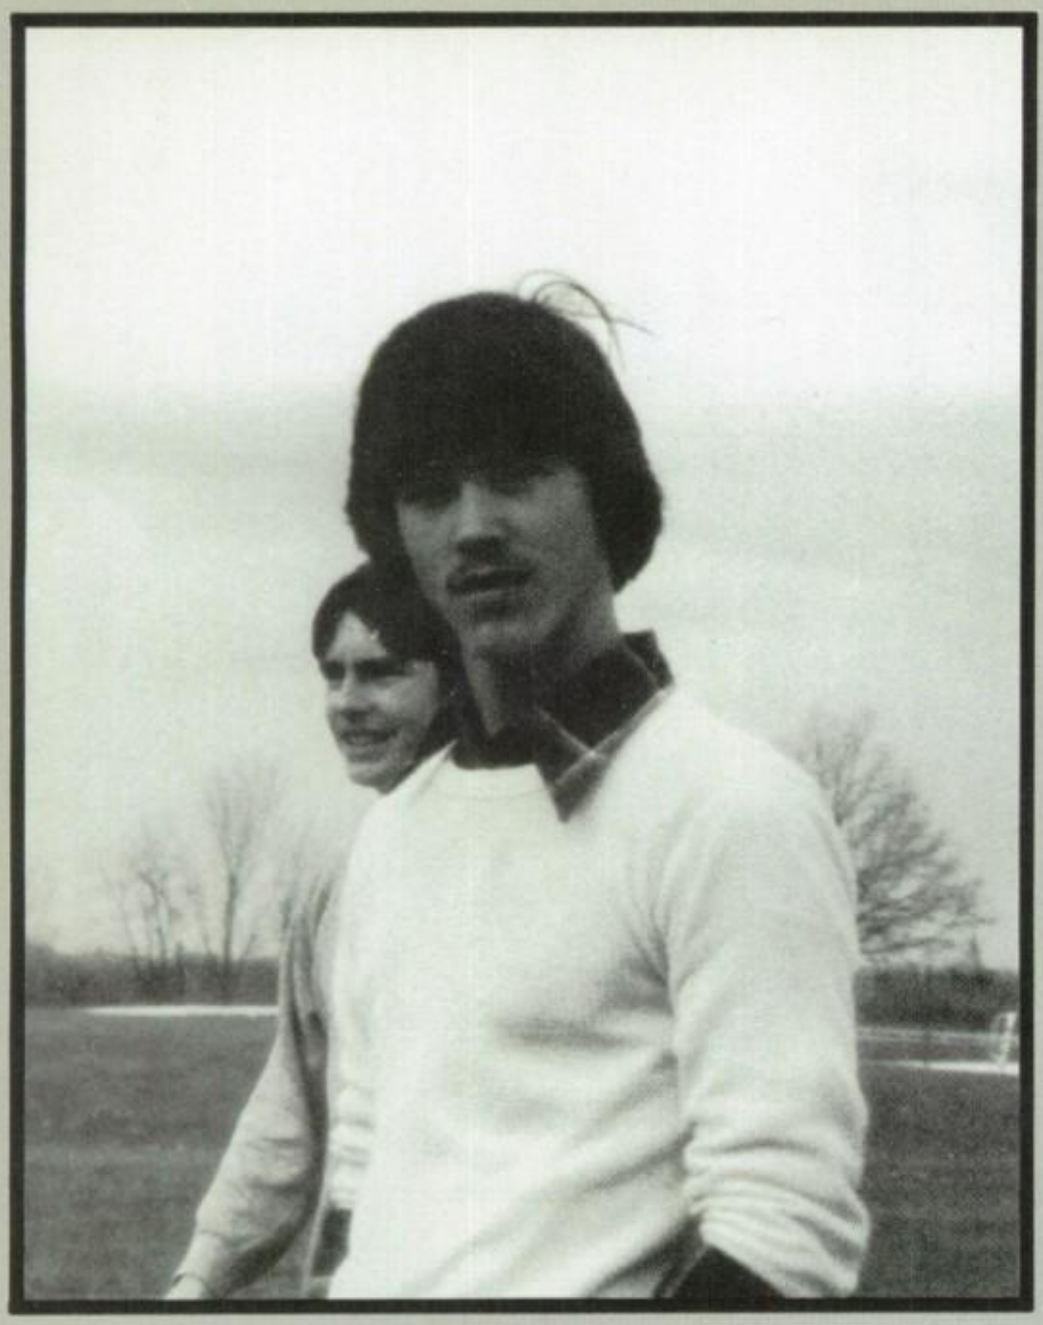
While others gather on the bridge, Jodie and Mark show their enlightenment.

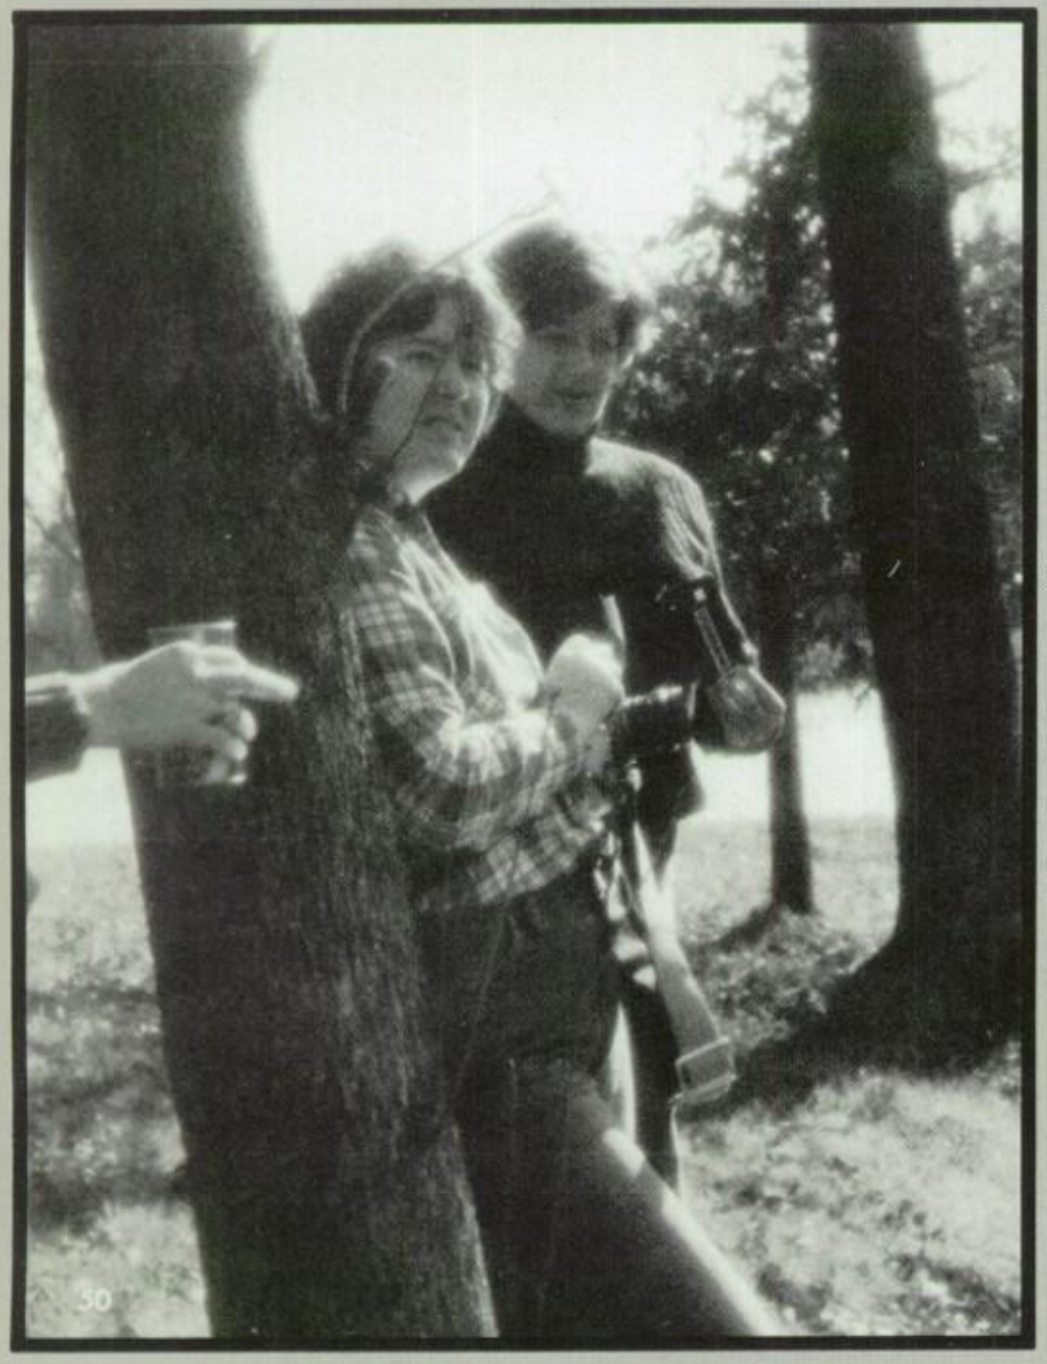
In an early attempt to unite the class, 100 seniors travelled to Marydale Retreat Camp for two days of play and prayer. Activities ranged from a soul-searching session, early in the day, to a group Mass shared by everyone.

Under the guidance of Father Dickman, the seniors set about uniting the class. Through prayer and talk sessions, many students exchanged sentiments. Rivalries which had mounted during the previous years began to relax as the students realized their similarities.

Although prayer played an important role in uniting the seniors, perhaps an even more important factor were the unplanned activities. An uncontrolled shaving cream fight in which all the students participated showed their ability to enjoy themselves together. Chicken fights and giant pyramids accompanied with a few people getting a free bath, added to the enjoyment. As a result, the 1978 senior retreat contained the first step toward uniting the class.







Nanette prepares for a dive, as the judges line the bridge.

This year's Junior class really accomplished a lot. The Prom, held in May, took the prize as their best achievement, yet it still reflected the quality of their year-round efforts. This class set a precedent for the classes to come, in that they successfully held the biggest dance of the year in an elementary school gymnasium! What was more amazing was that everybody liked it — even the complaining Seniors! Good Luck to you, Juniors, especially next year as you reach the top of the ladder.

BULLETIN

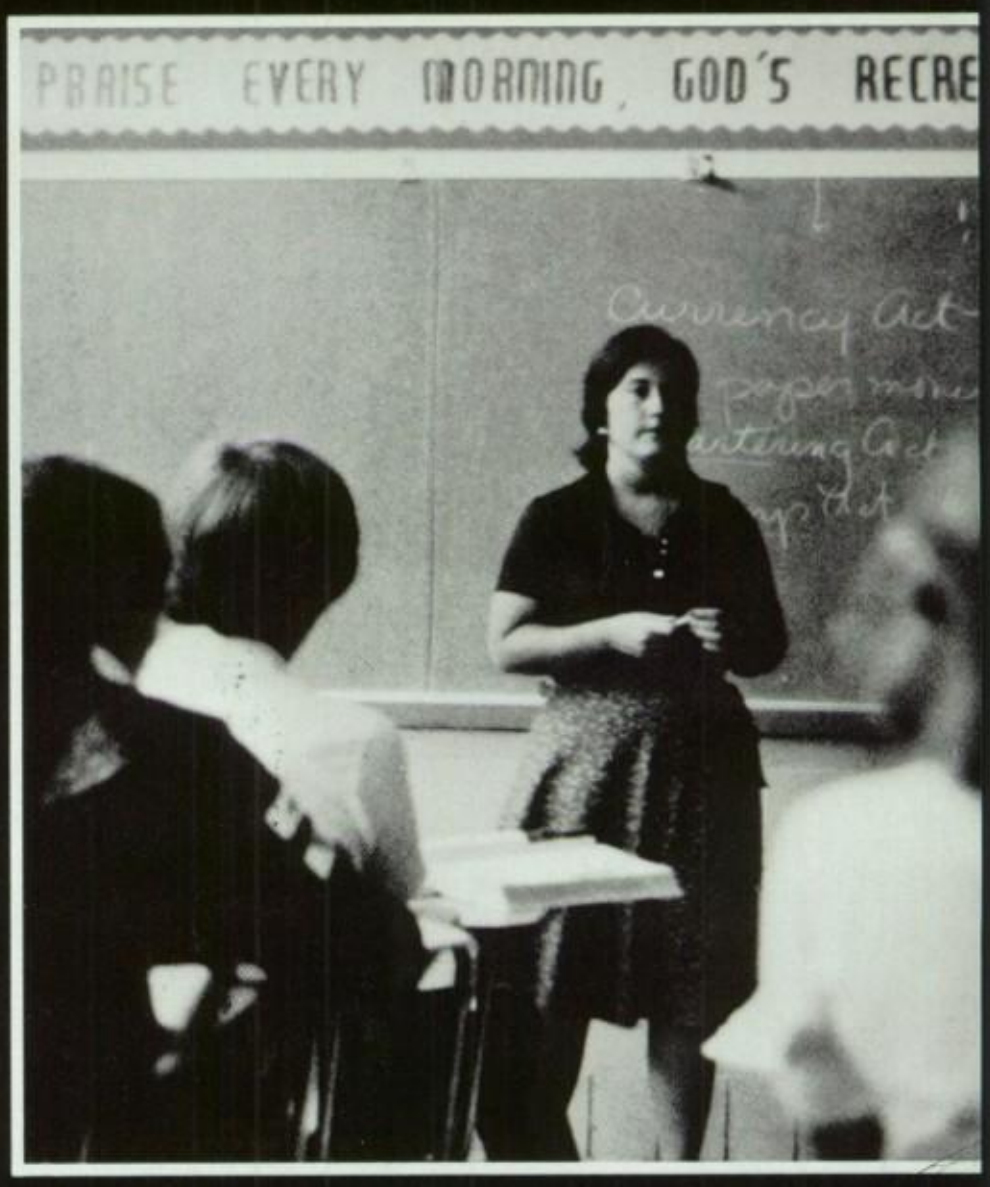
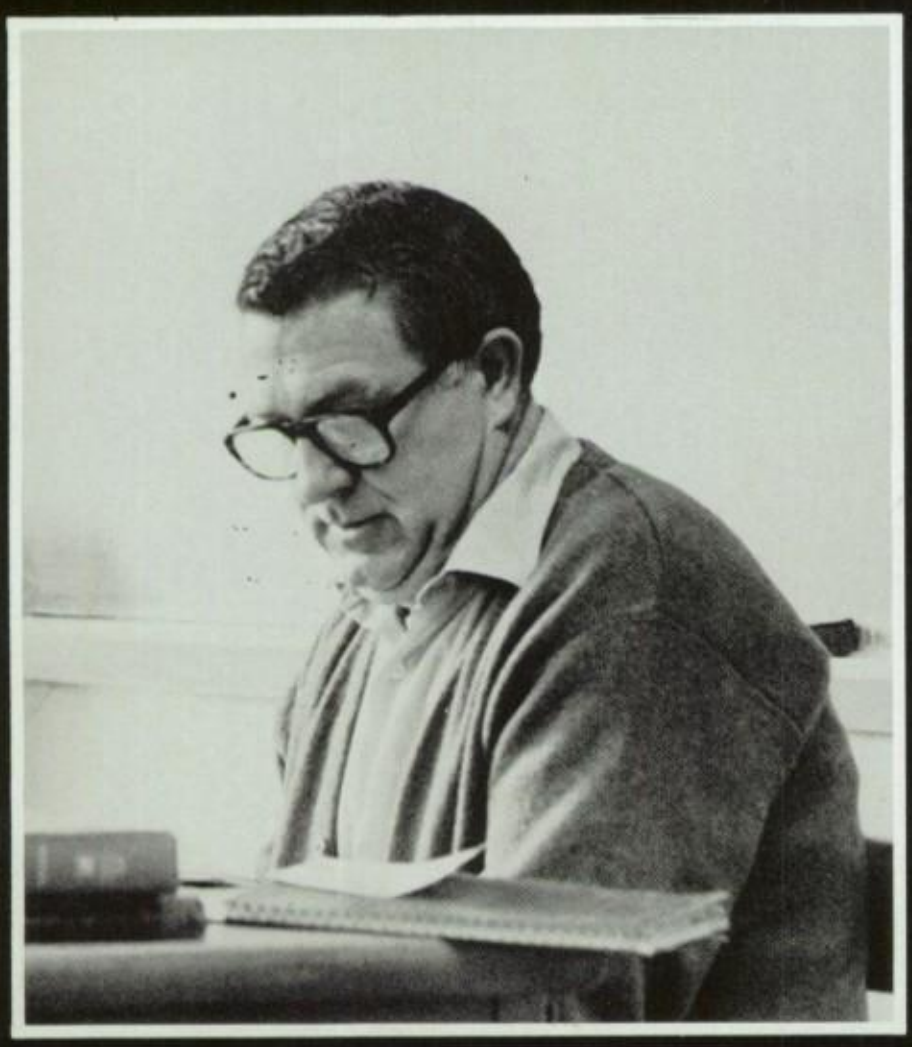
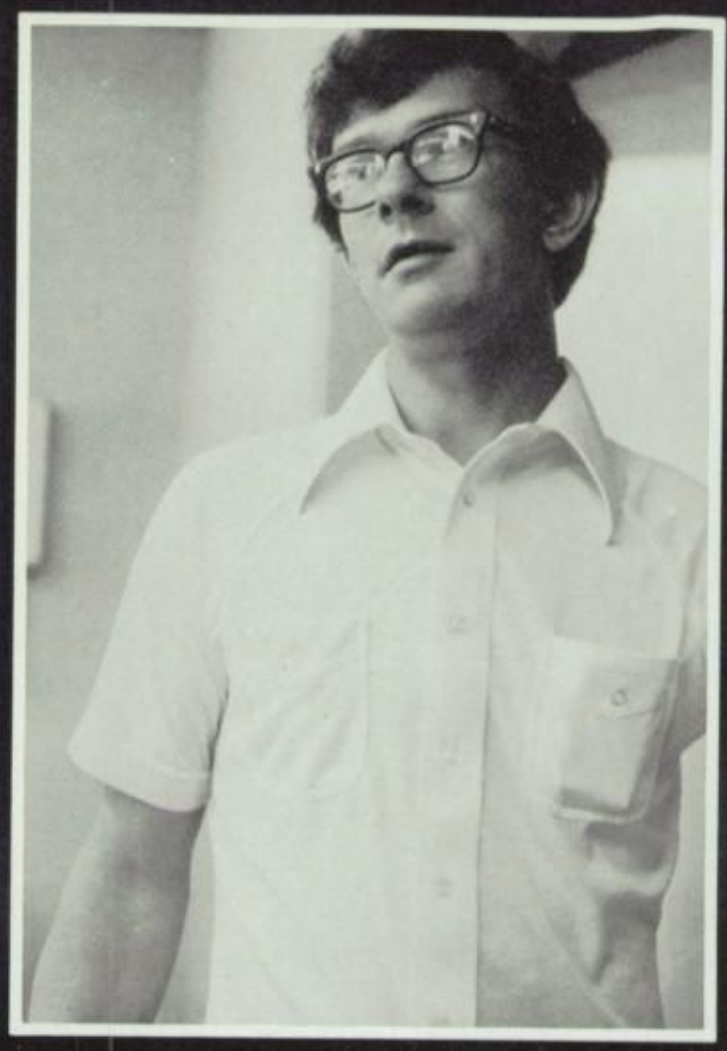
COOK

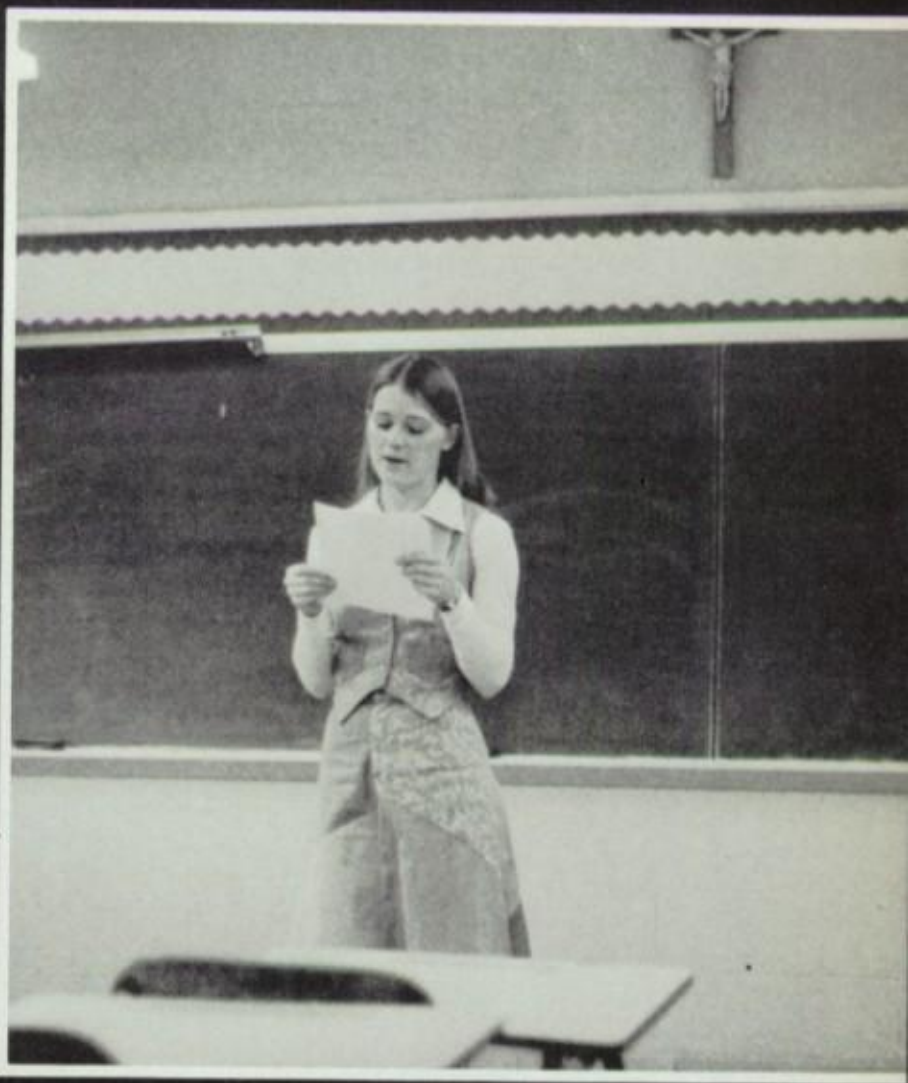
At school there are two types of people, teachers and students. Most everyone knows what it is like to be a student but most people don't understand what is involved with being a teacher.

Teachers are people who studied and learned in college so they could return and help younger generations gain the knowledge and experience necessary to survive and succeed in this modern world. Teachers often give of themselves for their students. They offer time normally spent with their families to take field trips during the summer, go on retreat or help with activities such as prom.









Teachers don't normally enjoy giving tests or disciplining students. But they realize how important knowledge and discipline are to success. In this way teachers attempt to prepare students for college and the world in the best way they can.

Maintenance

At any given time of the school day one might see these men going about their daily routine of cleaning the halls, the classrooms, and the restrooms. However, the majority of their work is done while school is not in session. The general upkeep of our school building is a basic part of maintenance that is often overlooked.

DRESS UP DAY

Last Halloween, the students here at Lexington Catholic decided to have a costume day. Clowns became a familiar sight walking through the halls. Why not? It was the perfect opportunity for everyone to express their "hidden inner selves."

Among the more uncommon personalities which emerged were a lady boy scout, and a "Paula Revere." However, the boys gained equality when a group of them became Dolly Partons for the day.

If you think these creations to be extraordinary, imagine the surprise when you encountered the Pink Panther. Or visualize the terror when you were forced to gaze upon a grotesque mummy which walked about in a death-like trance. The true theme of the day was brought out by one of the teachers who dressed herself as the "Great Pumpkin." Other teachers joined in the festivities by portraying Caesar, Shirley Temple, and Little Red Riding Hood. The costume day was a success, as shown by the enthusiastic response from teachers and students alike. It was quite an experience for all. After all how many times do you get the chance to actually meet Raggedy Ann and Andy?

Upper Right: 6'2", eyes of blue. Oh the things Brent "Parton" can do. Right: Raggedy Mike and Raggedy Jeff are all "dolled" up.

HAWKINS

Grab your partners and do-si-do! "Razzma-tazz" entertained the gals and their fellars while Fr. Ehrenfels doubled as "Marryin' Sam". Sheriff Sam Drury kept law and order in the halls of LCH seeing to it that there were no shot gun weddings. All in all the Sadie Hawkins Dance turned out to be an authentic hoedown.

Left: "Getting hitched." (Will this ceremony be legal?!)

Right: Bill Birch and Linda Reckelhoff swing to the beat.

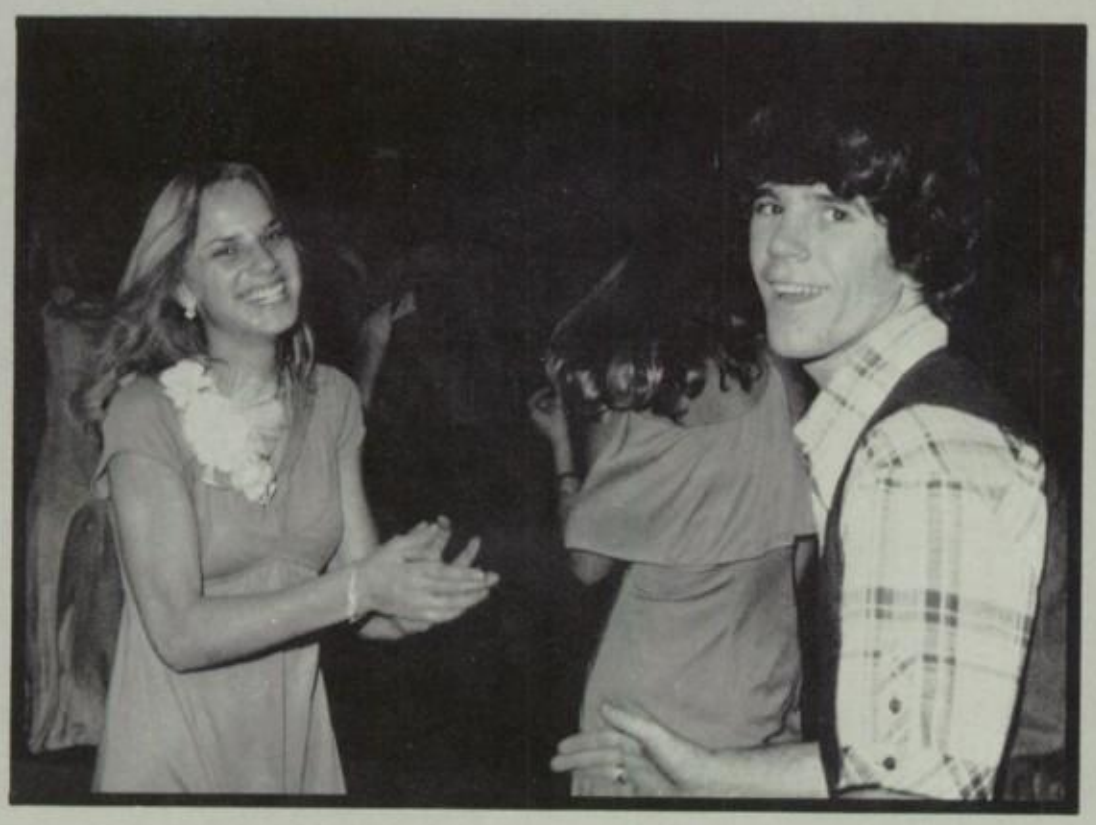
CHRISTMAS DANCE



This year's Christmas dance sponsored by the sophomore class was entitled "Sparkling Christmas." The sparkle was provided by "Spectre" who dazzled the dancing couples into the Christmas spirit. The 15 ft. tree decorated with homemade stars dominated the glittering decorations which gave a holiday lustre to the LCH gym.

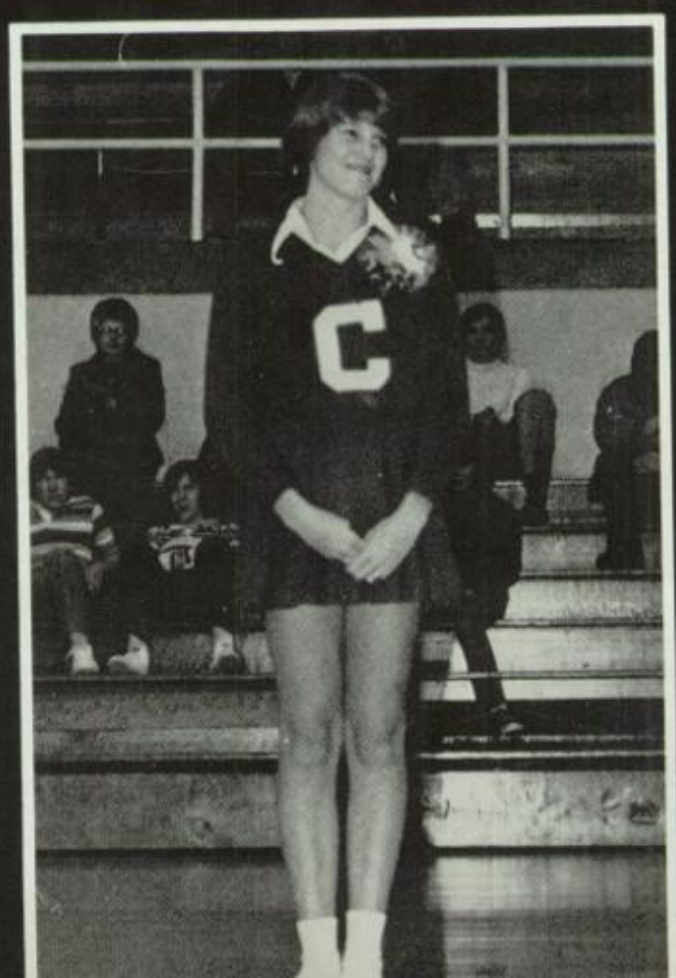
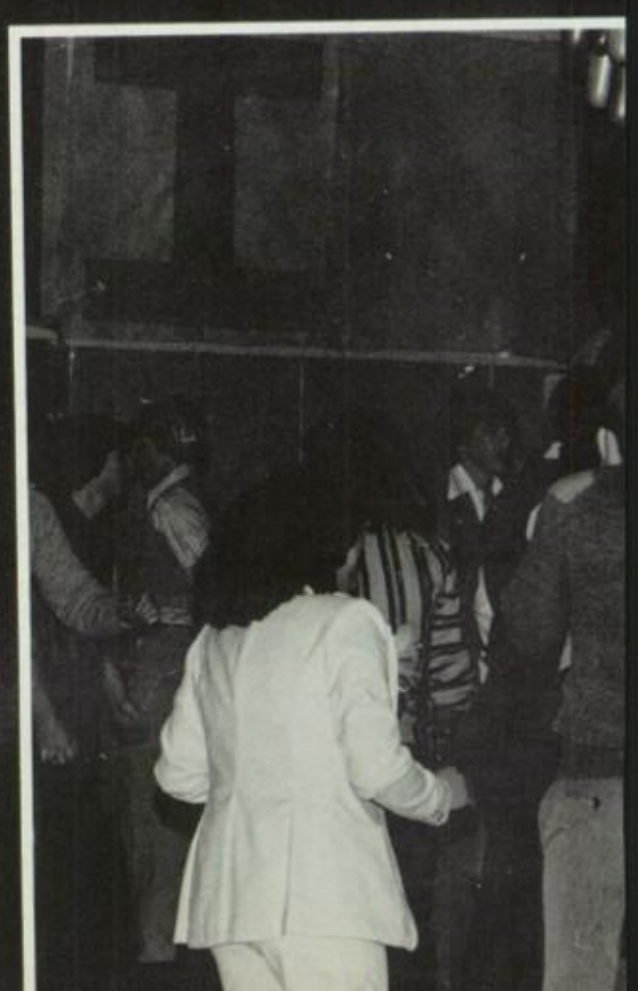
HOMECOMING '78

'78 Homecoming Court: Mary Lynn Vonderheide, Julian Gorham, Liz Daut, Mark Murray, Leslie Omohundro, Chip Cunningham, Kamille Brookbank, Robert Preston, Julie Burns, Philip Ledbetter.





After a heartbreaking loss in overtime to the Franklin Co. Flyers the students of LCH regained their spirits at the Homecoming Dance. With Abraham Rush providing the music, the highlight of the evening was the crowning of Leslie Omohundro as Homecoming Queen.

LATIN BANQUET

The Latin Banquet teaches Latin students the dress, food, myths, and culture of the Romans. It is these unique projects created by Miss Evans that make the "dead language" alive!

HOAGIE SALE

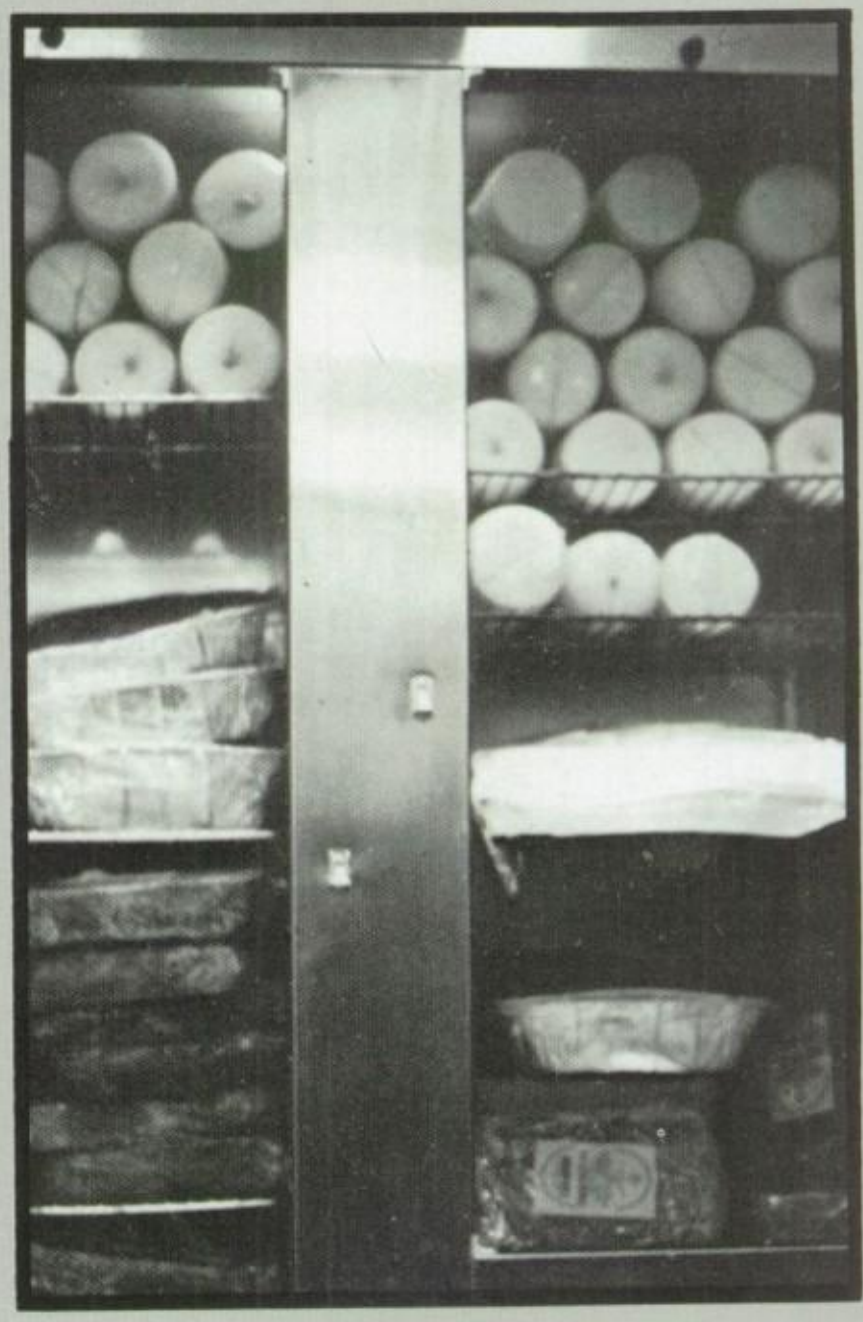
The Hoagie Sale Success Story

On Sept. 4, 1977, the Lexington Catholic P.T.A. launched a new fund raising project, suggested by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ruder and modeled after a similar project in Illinois, the hoagie sale. Inspired by a promise of a hoagie holiday (a half day off from school before Thanksgiving), the student body put forth that extra effort, selling over 9000 sandwiches.

One group which deserves credit is the "Moose Club" who peddled hoagies from the back of the mighty "Moose" truck. Also credit is deserved by sophomore, Steve Harp, who sold 140 hoagies. Steve and the "Mooses", our "Hoagie Heroes", really did a great job!!

Parents also pitched in to help. Over 125 of them volunteered a Saturday morning to "build" the hoagies. The sandwiches consisted of ham, salami, cheese, tomatoes, and onions on a bun.

Altogether, LCH netted over $5300 in hoagie sales. This money was allocated to various departments and toward new equipment.



Below: Mr. Kragel and Mr. Kissel slice the provolone cheese.

50's DAY

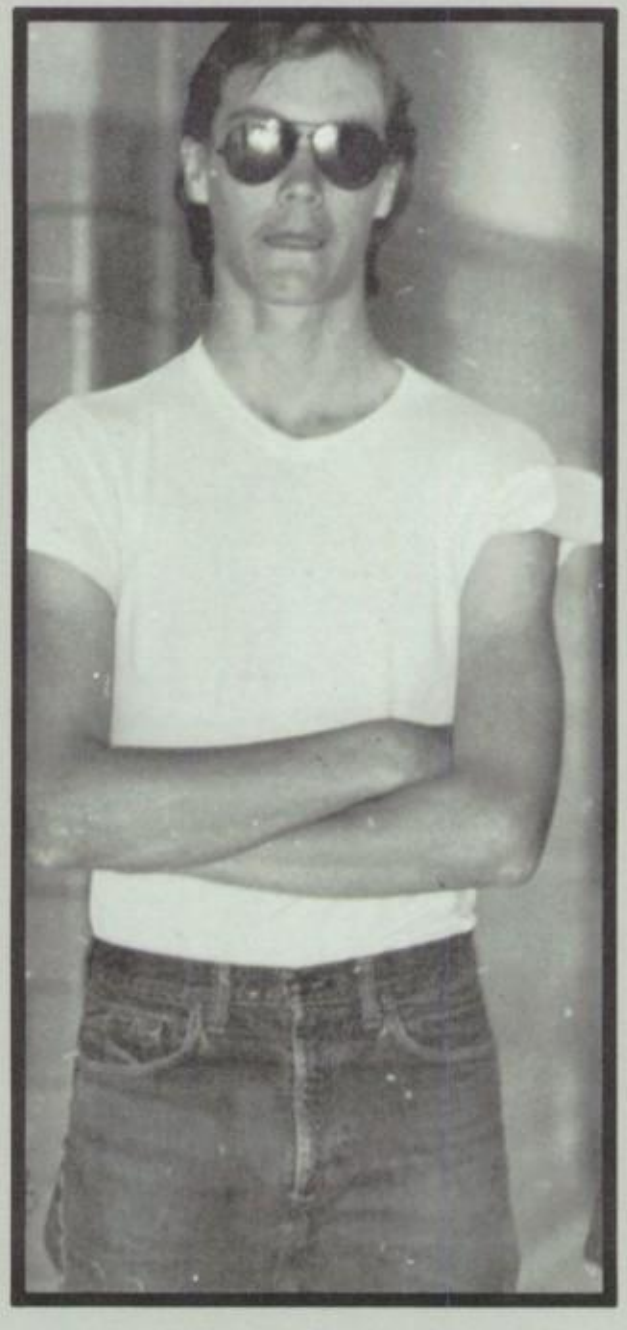
Bottom Left: John Swintosky, Joe Cool!



Pony tails and saddle shoes, Brillcream and ducktails. Echoes of the past? Not necessarily. On 50's Day it was very much a part of the present between the halls of LCH. Everybody got into the groove: the cool dudes and the hot chicks. The spirit of the era was so alive that after the halls had eagerly been deserted, one could almost expect to find the familiar gang grabbing a snack at the corner drug store.

Pep Club

The 1978 Pep Club was successful in keeping school spirit up during the endless, cold winter. Their many projects and activities enabled the club to donate three banners to the gym: two commemorating the boys varsity basketball success at District and Region in '77, and one congratulating the girls in '78. The 1978 officers are: Julie Daut (Pres.), Bill Thompson (V.P.).

Missing: President Julie Daut.

Chapel Helpers

Daily Mass is said in our chapel. Maintenance of the chapel is done during homeroom. Maria Noe, Beth Sallee, Leah Terhune and Kathy Anderson keep the chapel a fine place for individual prayer or Mass.

Missing: Toni Galvan and Linda Thompson.

French, Spanish and Latin are three languages offered to our students. The students study the customs and peoples of each land as well as learning the vocabulary. The Foreign Language Club brings all the language learners together to share their knowledge with one another.

SPEECH AND DRAMA

77-78 Officers: Julie Britsch (Sec.), Kathy Madden (V.P.), Mary Catherine Wroblewski (Pres.), Coach: Miss Anna Marie Evans.

The Speech and Drama Club was involved in countless activities this year. There were of course, a great many Speech Tournaments to attend. The Junior members took a three day trip to Morehead University to the District tournament. The Sophomores and Freshmen attended the Region tournament and from there many went to State.

Another highlight of the year came when all six Juniors attended the One-Act Play and Julie Britsch was named Best Actress.

The club put on a "Talent Showcase", as its final act, displaying the works they had used in competition. The club will miss their coach, Miss Evans, who is leaving this year.

LIBRARY AIDES

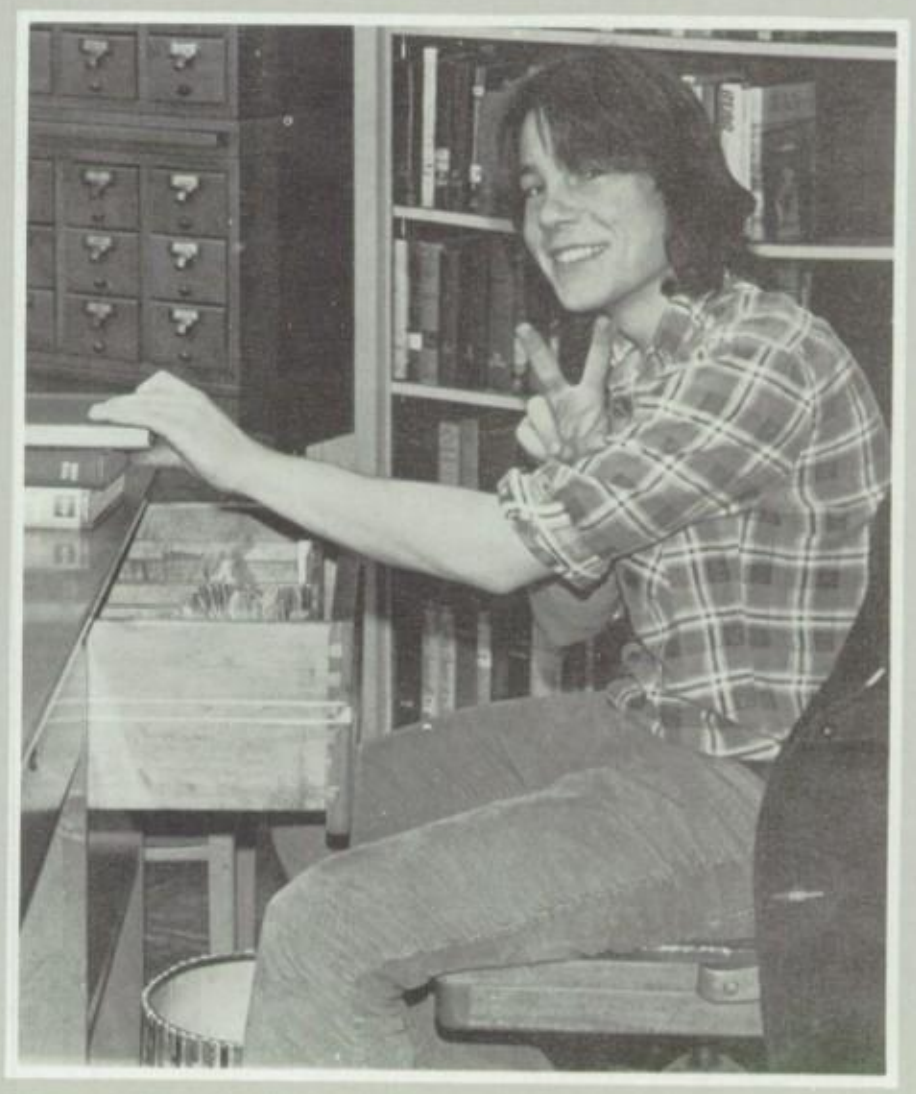
Student assistants to the librarian have the responsibility of keeping the library in order, as well as helping students find information for their research work.

Their basic duties consist of checking books in and out, replacing magazines on the shelves, getting new books ready for circulation and generally being ready to help the student body.
They are invaluable in a room where order is the name of the game.



A-V Boys

Everybody knows Bill and Eric, the two people who are responsible for the audio visual equipment in room 22. They are indispensable aids to all the teachers.
